SALOON MEN RECEIVE VISIT FROM THE SHERIFF

A Number in this City Under Indictment for Various Alleged Violations of the Law.

FIFTEEN CRIMINAL CASES FROM HERE

Sheriff A. J. Johnson came up from Wellsville last evening, and assisted by Deputy Terrence, spent the day in the city, serving the papers in the indictments returned against local parties by the late grand jury. The sheriff and his assistant were kept busy as they were unable to locate several of the persons indicted, and they would not give out the names of the parties whom they had been unable to serve papers upon.

The sheriff stated that 15 persons from this city had been indicted by the grand jury, eight of whom were for violation of liquor laws. Another indictment, which will cause considerable interest was that of Benjamin Wolk, a junk dealer, conducting a place in the vicinity of the brewery on Eighth street. Wolk has been indicted for conducting a business contrary to law. The nature of the offense was not learned, however. This is the first time that a person in this city has been charged with this offense by the grand jury.

HOUSE FELL DOWN DURING THE NIGHT

Child Asleep in a Cot Came Near Being Crushed by Wrecked Building.

A WELLSVILLE MAN'S LOSS

With bricks falling all over its little cot, and plaster and mortar covering it, the 18-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. James Russell, of White street, near Eleventh street, Wellsville, escaped being crushed to death last night. When Russell picked the baby from its bed it was just awakening from sleep.

Russell with his wife and babe lived in a cottage. The home was flooded three months ago. It has not been a home since said Russell today. He decided to raze the house recently and work had commenced.

Workmen went under the building yesterday afternoon to locate some supports, but the weight of the cottage was too much. During the evening the supports began to sink in the soft wet earth and the house tumbled against the one adjoining.

The two chimneys in the cottage came down through the roof and part of one fell on the cot where the babe was asleep.

An adjoining residence is knocked out of plumb by the cottage falling against it. Had the house not been there, the cottage would have been completely wrecked.

The alleged violations of the liquor laws, so far as the sheriff would give them out at a late hour this afternoon, are charged against the following saloonists: John Robinson, Second street; Tallis McCain, Second street; Louis Grubert, Second street; Mrs. Jane Huffman, Second street; John Kountz, Eighth street; Mrs. Michael Connolly and son, West Market street.

This leaves one other saloonist to have the papers served upon him and six papers to be served on other individuals. All the parties indicted for illegal liquor selling are cited to appear before the court at Lisbon on Monday, to plead to their indictment.

There are a number of other interesting cases from this city which were before the grand jury and the sheriff declined to state whether or not an indictment was found. The finding of the grand jury in these cases will not be given out until after the papers are served. It is evident, however, that true bills were found in at least three or four of them.

will of the late Michael Connor, of Wellsville, has been admitted to probate. The residue of the estate is left to two nieces, one-third to Julia L. Thornton and two-thirds to Mary Broderick. Thomas J. Thornton, son of the first named beneficiary, is named executor and has qualified under bond of $2,300. Appraisers, D. F. Steiner, W. L. Fogo, Jr., and Eli C. Taylor.

JAPANESE LOSS

At the Yalu Is Reported By the Russians to Have Been Heavy.

St. Petersburg, April 23.—(Special)—It is rumored here that the Japanese sustained heavy losses by attempting to land near the mouth of the Yalu river.

The Japanese fleet is again reported off Port Arthur.

HOOKSTOWN MAN ROBBED

Claims a Colored Woman Relieved Him of $10—A Warrant Issued.

John Smith, of Hookstown, appeared at the city hall this afternoon and had a warrant issued for the arrest of a colored woman, who, he claimed, touched him for $10. The warrant was issued and Officer Aufderheide went out to serve it.

Visiting Mrs. Betowsky.

Lon Vessel arrived in this city from Martin's Ferry this afternoon. He is the husband of the sister of Charles Kruger, lately hanged at Greensburg. He was met at the station by his wife and her mother, Mrs. Betowsky, and went to the Betowsky home back of the city.

An adjoining residence is knocked out of plumb by the cottage falling against it. Had the house not been there, the cottage would have been completely wrecked.

LISBON SALOON MEN

Also Come In For a Share of the Attention Bestowed By the Grand Jury.

Lisbon, April 23.—(Special)—Three Lisbon saloon men were indicted by the grand jury as follows: Barney McGovern and Lash Welch, selling to habitual drunkard, and E. O. Harris, selling on Sunday. Sheriff Johnson is in the southern part of the county serving papers on indicted persons.

Theater Bill Passed.

Columbus, April 23.—(Special)—The Silverberg theater bill passed the house and will be a law when signed by the governor. It provides strict regulations as to exits, asbestos curtains and other safety devices to guard against fire.

DAMAGE CLAIMS ARE TURNED DOWN

Service Board Decides to Pay Them Only When It Is Compelled.

LAW THE ONLY RE COURSE

"Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute" is the maxim of the board of public service. The members are determined that they will not authorize the payment of any claim for damage done by rains and washouts; that damages only can be obtained through the law. And it is very probable that they will be the defendant in such a suit, James Hague, of the West End, being determined to have the city pay for the damage done to his property.

Mr. Hague appeared before the board at its regular meeting last evening and about the entire time the body was in session was taken up in the hearing of his complaint. He averred that the city is responsible for the condition of his property, which has been covered by an alley and street which were washed down upon them. He reported that he had been before council and that body had referred him to the board. The board listened to the story of Mr. Hague, but gave him no satisfaction. Mr. Taylor thinks it would be better to give the case a trial than to establish a precedent, as there are a dozen others who would come in and claim damages immediately if any money were to be paid Mr. Hague.

A proposition was made by Mr. Hague that an arbitration board be appointed to consist of five members, two of them to be chosen by himself, two by the board and the other to be mutually agreed upon. He said that Mark Hanna and William McKinley were in favor of a board of arbitration and that the service board ought to be. City Solicitor Davidson was called and he stated that Mr. Hague's only recourse was with the board.

J. T. Smith, of the Smith & Phillips China company, appeared before the board and asked that a six-inch water main be laid to the plant in the West End, it being the desire of the company to install the sprinkling system. The matter was referred to Supt. Morley.

A number of bills were paid and a few other complaints were heard.

A Fine Gas Well.

Leetonia, April 23.—On the Isaac Halterstadt farm, three miles south, a gas well said to have 300 pounds pressure was struck yesterday.

POTTERIES BURN WITH BIG LOSS

The Bryan Company's Plant Near Trenton Is Reduced to Ashes.

IT WILL BE REBUILT SOON

Trenton, N. J., April 23.—(Special)—Fire totally destroyed the Bryan pottery yesterday afternoon, causing a loss of over $60,000. The flames started in the engine room and were fought fiercely by the pottery fire brigade. No headway could be made. A fierce wind quickly fanned the blaze to the main building. The plant is two miles from town, but the local fire department responded. After an hour's hard work the firemen got the fire under control. Assistant Chief Bennett was badly burned about the face.

Nothing but the walls and kilns are left standing. The kilns are filled with valuable ware and it is believed it is destroyed. Two weeks ago the plant had a $30,000 fire. James Bryan, of the firm, says they will rebuild at once. The insurance is $50,000.

The plant of the Rulon Decorating company, at 76 Wall street, was destroyed by fire this morning, loss $5,000. Officers of the company claim the fire was of incendiary origin. The flames started in the packing shed and the explosion of a barrel of turpentine quickly spread them to the main building. A large quantity of valuable ware was destroyed. Four fire companies were required to conquer the blaze.

JACOB SMURTHWAITE SERIOUSLY INJURED

FELL FROM A TREASLE AND STRUCK HIS HEAD.

Shoulder Thought to Be Broken And He Was Badly Cut on the Head.

Jacob Smurthwaite was seriously injured shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon by falling from a trestle on the Horn switch in the rear of the West End pottery. Smurthwaite is employed at the West End plant and was helping pack a car of ware on the railroad track when the accident occurred.

The barrow he was wheeling evidently struck an obstruction at the trestle, as Smurthwaite was thrown over the edge. He struck on his head 15 feet below and was found unconscious a few moments later.

In the beginning of the administration I considered the police force in bad shape. There were things going on in town that should have been stopped, for this reason, that directly after the present chief went in a number of these things were wiped out. Outside of Morris' insubordination he would not be my ideal. I would say the same of Dawson, Dunn and Aufderheide. None of the officers reached the required percentage as to morality.

"Where were the police deficient?"

"They did not fall on the matter of insubordination. It had something to do with it."

Mr. Jones asked what branches they failed in. Mr. Brooks objected.

Mr. Jones said from the first inception of the situation the board had certain persons it determined to appoint.

"They failed to put it on record and we want to get it from them on the stand." The objection was overruled.

Mr. Ogilvie, in continuing, said that the four patrolmen passed in oral examination and on physical examination, but did not know that they are better physically than Wyman.

DWELLING BURNED

House Near Millport a Mass of Flames Before the Family Awakened.

Lisbon, April 23.—(Special)—A dwelling house about half a mile from Millport, owned by William H. Baker, of Columbiana, and occupied by Edward Zitter, was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. The fire is supposed to have originated from an incubator in the kitchen, and that part of the house was a roaring mass of flames before any of the Zitter family awoke.

None of the contents of the house, except an organ and a carpet, were saved. There was some insurance on the house, but it is not known whether the goods were insured or not.

WYMAN HEARING IS NOT FINISHED

Another Session Before Commissioner Gaston Will Be Necessary.

POLICEMEN UNDER FIRE

Contrary to expectations, the hearing in the Wyman case was not concluded last evening. It was continued until Saturday, April 30, when some very spicy testimony will be adduced if Commissioner Gaston will permit it, which is not likely, as he stated before the adjournment that he would not tolerate the submission of it. The continuation was asked to give the defense the opportunity of proving that the characters of the four rejected patrolmen were not of a standard qualifying them for certification to the chiefship.

The testimony given until 3 o'clock yesterday was published in full in the News Review. The reproduction of the oaths of witnesses was concluded in the midst of Mr. Ogilvie's examination. The rest of his testimony follows:

An Odd Jewish Ceremony. In the Jewish Encyclopedia is an account of the queer ceremony of the taking off of a brother-in-law's shoe by the widow of a brother who has died childless, through which ceremony he is released from the obligation of marrying her. The ceremony is described as follows:

The yabam (brother-in-law) must have his right foot, on which the shoe is placed, washed very scrupulously, and after he has strapped it on he must walk four cubits in the presence of the judges. Then the chief of the judges reads the following passage, which the yabamah (woman) repeats word for word: "My brother-in-law refuses to raise unto his brother a name in Israel; he will not marry me." Then the yabam is required to repeat the sentence, "I do not wish to take her." He then presses his right foot against the floor while she loosens the straps with her right hand, takes off the shoe and throws it some distance away. Then she places herself in front of the yabam, spits on the floor in front of him and repeats these words after the presiding judge: "So shall it be done unto that man who will not build up his brother's house, and his name shall be called in Israel 'the house of him that hath his shoe loosed.'"

Tying a Horse to a Hole. It has been discovered that the desert Indians, who have never been credited with superabundant wits, have for many years employed a method of tying their horses to holes in the ground that is clever, unique and effective. The operation of tying a horse to a hole seems an impracticable and impossible one, for there is something decidedly intangible and unsubstantial about the hole. The operation is performed in this way: Kneeling on the hot sands, the Indians dig with their hands until they have made a hole about two feet deep. They then tie an immense knot in the end of the halter rope, lower it into the bottom of the hole, fill the hole with sand and then jump and stamp upon it until the earth over the knot is about as hard as sandstone.—London Magazine.

Cats and Cattle. In certain parts of southern California it is absolutely necessary to have cats to successfully raise cattle. The cows feed on a red clover which makes a superior quality of beef. This clover grew very sparsely until it was discovered that one farmer who had raised a large number of tabby cats always had fine clover fields. Investigation proved that the cats killed the field mice who killed the wild bees who fertilized the clover seeds by carrying the pollen from flower to flower, thus causing the seeds to sprout thickly every year. Now all the farmers have many cats.

Practical Economy. A man whose impetuous condition is chronic and who bows with the airy grace of a beau in an old comedy recently approached an acquaintance, all smiles and geniality. "You're just the fellow I wanted to see," he said. "Could you lend me $5 for a minute?" "I could," said the acquaintance dryly, "but let me tell you how to save $5. Wait a minute and you won't need it."

TROUBLE AT CROOKSVILLE.

Pottery workmen to the number of 600 employed in the plants of the Acme pottery and the Crooksville China company at Crooksville, Perry county, have gone out on a strike. President Duffy, of the national organization, has been summoned. Warren Myler, a decorator at the Crooksville China pottery, has been working for $3.50 daily, when the union scale calls for $4. After November 1 Myler worked for 30 days under protest orders and has continued to work for $3.50 daily. The company was asked to settle for the difference in wages that has multiplied since November 1. This was refused and the strike followed.

CLOSED FOR A MONTH.

The Goodwin pottery has been closed down for one month, according to the statement made yesterday by an official of the company. Very little work has been done in the past week, and as there is a large and well-assorted stock on hand current orders can be cared for with business in the present condition. Shipments are being made every day and a part of the force in the decorating department will continue at work.

MR. PENNINGTON HERE.

Fred Pennington, the well known local packer, who is now employed at Toronto, stopped off here yesterday after a business visit to Pittsburgh. He says that the Toronto plant has been doing a nice business and that all the operatives have been kept busy. Every operator is a member of No. 1 and the members are proud of their organization. At a recent meeting 22 candidates were initiated.

Cats and Cattle.
In certain parts of southern California it is absolutely necessary to have cats to successfully raise cattle. The cows feed on a red clover which makes a superior quality of beef. This clover grew very sparsely until it was discovered that one farmer who had raised a large number of tabby cats always had fine clover fields. Investigation proved that the cats killed the field mice who killed the wild bees who fertilized the clover seeds by carrying the pollen from flower to flower, thus causing the seeds to sprout thickly every year. Now all the farmers have many cats.

Practical Economy.
A man whose impetuous condition is chronic and who borrows with the airy grace of a beau in an old comedy recently approached an acquaintance, all smiles and gaiety.

"You're just the fellow I wanted to see," he said. "Could you lend me $5 for a minute?"

"I could," said the acquaintance dryly, "but let me tell you how to save that $5. Wait a minute and you won't need it."

Both Heartily Recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, Which Brought Them Health After Years of Suffering.

The Colonel's Letter.

It gives me great pleasure to state that I have just recovered from a severe attack of chronic Gastritis. Nothing could be retained on my stomach during my illness. Not even milk. I was reduced from 185 lbs. to 140 in 7 weeks. Nothing did me any good. My son, Updegraff, I should try Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It had cured him. It stayed on my stomach, and I was able to take a little milk with it. It acted like magic, and in a few weeks I was able to take solid food without distress. I soon regained my weight, my stomach is sound, my general health was never better. And I owe my cure to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey."

C. E. UPDEGRAFF, 39 S. 4th St.

THEIR ONLY MEDICINE

No medicine in the world can show a larger list of actual cures than Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey—over 4,000,000 complete cures in 50 years. Lots of so-called "cures" make you feel better for a while but the effect soon passes off. Duffy's actually and positively cures you. 7,000 doctors prescribe it and 2,000 hospitals use it exclusively.

Duffy's alone will cure you and keep you well. It is scientifically distilled from absolutely selected malt, and is guaranteed absolutely free from fusel oil, so generally found in other whiskies.

It begins by killing the disease germs and driving them out of the system. Then allays all inflammation, replaces the diseased tissues, enriches and purifies the blood, and strengthens the circulation. It tones up the heart's action, quietes the nerves, and CADS—When you ask for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. Unscrupulous dealers often sell imitation and malt whisky substitutes, which are not on the market for profit only, and which, far from relieving the sick, are positively harmful. Demand "Duffy's" and be sure you get it. It is the only absolutely pure Malt Whiskey—technically medicinal, healing qualities. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold in small bottles only—never in flat or round. Look for the trade-mark, "Old Chemist," on the label, and be certain the seal over the cork is unbroken. Beware of refilled bottles.

YOUNG WIFEOOD

BOSTON, MASS., 152 Shawmut Ave., Oct. 23, 1902.
After I had been married about four months I felt my health generally decline. I seemed to lose the light step and dragged wearily along instead. My appetite failed me and I lost health and strength. I was nervous and had shooting pains through my limbs and stomach while bearing down pains and constant headaches added to my misery. The menstrual flow became more and more profuse and I was unfit to attend to my daily duties. My husband called in three different physicians and I took enough medicine to kill or cure a dozen women, but it all had no effect on me whatever, until I took Wine of Cardui. In a few days I felt a change for the better, my general health improved and at the next time of my periods my flow was more natural and I was in less pain. Gradually I recovered my health and strength and am now in perfect health. I take an occasional dose of Wine of Cardui which keeps me well.

I am happy to give you this endorsement.

Betha Ricker
President, Back Bay Woman's Club.

Why don't you try for the same health Mrs. Ricker has? It is easy to secure if you take Wine of Cardui according to directions. Wine of Cardui strengthens weak and worn-out women of any age and assists the mother and housewife to bear her exacting duties. Wine of Cardui makes women fit for all the duties of womanhood.

It will relieve the pains of irregularity, cures falling of the womb, leucorrhœa, ovarian troubles, and has been known to remove what physicians considered dangerous tumors. Women who use Wine of Cardui do not suffer at the monthly periods. They do not suffer hysterical attacks, because Wine of Cardui gives them strong nerves freed from the irritation of female suffering.

A $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui purchased from your druggist will keep you free from pain.

FOUND HATS

UNDER CULVERT

EVIDENCE OF BURGLARY BROUGHT TO LIGHT.

Kwal's Department Store on Mulberry Street Probably Robbed Several Weeks Ago.

Evidence of a burglary that must have been committed several weeks ago came to light yesterday afternoon when Porter Bell, of the street department, found number of hats under the Mulberry street culvert over Lake run. The hats were all new, but had been ruined by the water.

Bell had been engaged on the work of building a retaining wall along the run just south of Mulberry street and deepening the channel. The culvert under Mulberry street is about 10 feet wide and about three feet high and Bell entered it to remove some debris. The hats were scattered along through the culvert and most of them were in the water.

The finding of the hats was reported to the East End merchants and through the name of the maker and other marks Charles Kwal, proprietor of the new department store on Mulberry street, identified them as coming from his establishment. The hats were Rossmore make and all but four of them were derbies or stiff hats. Another label bore the name of William Levi, East Pittsburg, sole agent.

Mr. Kwal stated this morning that he had found one of the rear windows of the store open one morning about two weeks ago, but thought nothing of it at the time. He missed nothing from the stock and thought perhaps the window had been left open by accident.

The hats were of a kind for which there is no demand at this season of the year and for this reason they were not missed.

Mr. Kwal is a great deal puzzled over the affair. No other articles are missing and why the burglars after gaining an entrance to the store contented themselves with a few hats, only to abandon them, when merchandise of much greater value could have been taken, is more than he can understand.

The hats were worth about $50.

Antwerp Milk Woman.

There is no more picturesque figure in quaint old Antwerp than the milk woman. For many years the milk of the city has been served to the houses by these women, whose customs and even costumes have remained unchanged. The milk women wear a simple dress, almost completely covered with a voluminous white apron. A quaint white headress completes the uniform. Scores of these picturesque figures are to be seen throughout Antwerp in the morning hours. The milk is either carried in two large buckets, hung from a yoke running across the shoulders, or in little carts drawn by dogs.

Eating at Night.

Every living bird and beast strives its utmost to cram itself with food before retiring for the night, and this food is digested as the night progresses. The evening feed is the feed of the day with the brute creation, and yet doctors tell us to refrain from eating heartily at night and even advise us to retire to rest with a more or less empty stomach. Are we following nature when following this advice?—Country Gentleman.

DANGEROUS KIDNEY DISEASES CURED

Peruna Creating a National Sensation in the Cure of Chronic Ailments of The Kidneys.

Fred R. Pennell, Pianist, Grand Opera House, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

"Two years ago I came to Hot Springs to take the baths and be treated for bladder and kidney trouble. After spending two months here under the care of one of the most prominent physicians and receiving little or no benefit, I was persuaded to try Peruna. I had little faith in it, but after using one bottle I noticed a marked improvement. Three bottles entirely cured me. I can cheerfully recommend Peruna to any one afflicted as I was."—Fred R. Pennell.

Thomas M. Hicks, 1131 13th St., Louisville, Ky., writes:

"Neglected colds, irregular habits and overwork brought on serious kidney and bladder trouble. My blood seemed inflamed with poison, my stomach became entirely demoralized, a bad odor emanated from my urine, and I realized I was a sick man. The doctors dosed me to their heart's content, but I kept growing worse. Then fortune brought Peruna to my notice and I at once began to mend. I kept taking it for five months before I was completely cured. I feel now that I owe my life to Peruna and will never cease to be grateful."—Thomas M. Hicks.

S. L. Earle, Superintendent of Streets, Jacksonville, Fla., writes:

"I am a firm believer in Peruna. I find that it has been of practical benefit to a number of the men employed in the Street Cleaning Department in the city of Jacksonville. They are especially exposed to the inclemency of the weather and a number who caught cold, which later developed into pneumonia, kidney or liver trouble, were cured through the use of Peruna."—S. L. Earle, Superintendent of Streets.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

FATHER AND SON CURED

Col. C. E. Updegraff, of Reading, Pa., Was Cured of Chronic Stomach Trouble, and His Son of Bronchitis, by DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY

Both Heartily Recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, Which Brought Them Health After Years of Suffering.

The Colonel's Letter.

It gives me great pleasure to state that I have just recovered from a severe attack of chronic Gastritis. Nothing could be retained in my stomach during my illness. Not even milk. I was reduced from 185 lbs. to 145 in 7 weeks. Nothing did me any good. My son, Col. C. E. Updegraff, tried Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which he had heard cured him. It stayed on my stomach, and I was able to take a little milk with it. It acted like magic, and in a few weeks I was able to take solid food without distress. I soon regained my weight, my stomach is sound, my general health was never better. And I owe my cure to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey."

C. E. UPDEGRAFF, 39 S. 4th St.

YOUNG WIFEHOOD

BOSTON, MASS., 152 Shawmut Ave., Oct. 25, 1902.

After I had been married about four months I felt my health generally decline. I seemed to lose the light step and dragged weakly along instead. My appetite failed me and I lost health and strength. I was nervous and had shooting pains through my limbs and stomach while bearing down pains and constant headaches added to my misery. The menstrual flow became more and more profuse, and I was unfit to attend to my daily duties. My husband called in three different physicians and I took enough medicine to kill or cure a dozen women, but it all had no effect on me whatever, until I took Wine of Cardui. In a few days I felt a change for the better, my general health improved and at the next time of my periods my flow was more natural and I was in less pain. Gradually I recovered my health and strength and am now in perfect health. I take an occasional dose of Wine of Cardui which keeps me well.

I am happy to give you this endorsement.

OBITUARY

John D. Harbaugh.

Lisbon, April 23.—(Special)—Ex-Sheriff John D. Harbaugh died at his home here at 7 o'clock last evening after a long illness with kidney trouble, which developed into uraemic poisoning a few days ago. Mr. Harbaugh was 65 years old the 17th of last month. He was born on the old Harbaugh homestead in Hepner's hollow, a mile south of town, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan T. Harbaugh. He spent nearly all his life in Lisbon and vicinity. Enlisting here August 11, 1862, in Company K, One Hundred and Fourth regiment, Ohio volunteer infantry, under Captain William J. Jordan, of Lisbon, he served to the close of the war, being mustered out with his regiment at Greensboro, N. C., June 17, 1865. Soon after his enlistment he was made sergeant and on March 21, 1864, on account of ill health, was transferred to the Veteran Reserve corps. In 1883 he was made the Republican candidate for sheriff in place of Fred Gailey, who became incapacitated during his first term. Mr. Harbaugh filled the position two terms with credit, closing his incumbency in 1887. During Governor McKinley's administration he was a visitors' attendant in the capitol at Columbus.

He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Katherine Endley, and whom he married soon after the war, and six children, Mrs. Sheridan Temple, of Pittsburgh, and Misses Mary, Ann and Sue and Charlie and Harry, all of Lisbon. Three sisters and a brother also survive as follows: Mrs. James Wood, of Washingtonville; Mrs. Emmor Entriken, of Long's Crossing, and Mrs. Charles Helman and Thomas Harbaugh, of Lisbon. Funeral services will be held at the house Monday afternoon, Rev. J. S. Secret, of the M. E. church, officiating. Starr post, No. 136, G. A. R., of which he was a member, will attend in a body and officiate at the grave in the Lisbon cemetery.

Mrs. George Peach.

Mrs. Sarah A. Peach, aged 63 years, wife of George Peach, died at her home in the Diamond at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Although she had been almost hopelessly ill for several months, the news of Mrs. Peach's death caused deep regret over the city, as she was generally known and had innumerable acquaintances and friends. The funeral arrangements had not been made today, awaiting word from relatives in the west. Announcement will be made later.

Mrs. Peach had been an invalid for the past four years, but was able to be up and around until last November, when she grew worse and since that time her condition has been critical. Everything known to medical science was done to restore her to health, but this and careful nursing by loving hands could not avail.

Mrs. Peach was born in Staffordshire, England, but came to America and to East Liverpool when quite a small child. She had been a resident of the city ever since, witnessing its growth from a village to a thriving city. She was married to Mr. Peach 44 years ago and of the union one child, a son, Harry Peach, was born. He with the husband are the only near relatives here. Her brother,

WRANGLING CONTINUES OVER SCHOOL CODE

Conference Report Rejected By the House Today After a Stormy Session.

Columbus, April 23.—(Special)—By a vote of 55 to 43 the house of representatives, after the stormiest fight of the session, rejected the reports of the conference committee on the elastic school code.

The house insists on the small board plan and has asked the senate for another conference, each house to have five representatives. If the senate insists on its plan the legislature will adjourn without enacting a school code.

SOUTH SIDE

HONORED IN DEATH

Four Ministers and Many Friends Pay Tribute to the Late R. M. Cunningham.

Many of the friends of the late Robert M. Cunningham were unable to gain admission to the M. E. church during the funeral services which were held yesterday afternoon. Several hundred persons were in attendance and the services were very pathetic. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Blackmore, of the M. E. church, assisted by all the other Chester ministers, Rev. W. B. Gillis, of the U. P. church, Rev. J. W. Dunbar, of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. Mr. Carroll, of the Free Methodist church.

After the large choir had sung "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," Rev. Mr. Gillis read a scripture lesson and Rev. Mr. Carroll offered prayer. Rev. Mr. Blackmore spoke in tender words of the work of deceased in life, touching upon the many deeds of kindness for which the departed had been noted. Rev. Mr. Dunbar made the closing prayer and Miss Emma Maple Musser sang "Bye and Bye." The remains were then taken to Locust Hill cemetery, where interment was made. The pall bearers were Messrs. O. O. Allison, C. F. Finley, Joseph N. Finley and Frank Finley. There was a profusion of floral offerings from friends, the most noticeable being the large wreath presented by the Chester merchants.

A SPECIAL MEETING

Of Chester Council May Be Called for Monday Night to Attend to Urgent Matters.

It is likely that a special meeting of the Chester council will be held on Monday evening, if the members of that body are able to be present. Mayor Mercer is very anxious for the meeting, as matters pertaining to the improvement of the condition of the streets are very imperative, and no time should be lost in having the work begun if it is expected to complete it in time to be of any benefit to the citizens when it will be most appreciated.

It is certainly up to the members of the council to be in attendance at the meeting on Monday night if one is called, as they have done nothing in the matter for the past two weeks toward making any headway. It is expected that the committee which was to work in conjunction with Engineer Kelly in recommending a method of making the improvements will be ready to report.

THE MOCK TRIAL

Given Under the Auspices of the U. P. Church a Most Amusing Entertainment.

In the neighborhood of 500 persons were present at the park pavilion last evening to hear the mock trial given by the members of the United Presbyterian church. It was a very pleasant entertainment and the audience was kept in an uproar of laughter during the entire performance.

Miss Mary McDonald was the plaintiff in the breach of promise suit brought against Thomas Pierpont Morgan Faintheart, better known in private life as James Finley. A large amount of evidence was submitted on each side and the jury had considerable trouble in awarding the verdict which was finally decided in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $50,000. The entertainment netted a neat sum for the treasury of the church.

A cloud of witnesses were present. The Clover club contingent consisted of Peter A. Pugh, Al McDonald, H. A. Allison and other candidates. Letters were read on both sides. Though spicy they were unobjectionable in their terms, as a rule. Attorney Moore's pleading was good. The speech of the evening was made by Attorney Ingram, who gave a strong and able plea. The lady witnesses made a fine impression and did not speak so low as not to be inaudible, as some of the men did. The affair netted about $75 and was a success in every particular.

EVERYBODY GUESSING

At the Intention of the Writer of a Strange Letter Received at Chester.

The mysteriously addressed letter that has been received at the Chester post office is now being submitted to the patrons for their interpretation. Thomas Oaks claims that it is addressed to the parties who blew up the safe and wants the party who calls for the letter arrested.

Others claim that it was addressed to Squire Johnston by one of the young maidens who attended a picnic at the park last summer. This the squire denies, and says he believes it is a notice sent out by Mayor Mercer to those who allow their chickens to run at large. The mayor is supposed to have figured up the number of chickens on the envelope and forgotten to address it. It will be soaked in water before it is sent to the dead letter office.

Arrested at the Park.

Sergeant Rose arrested two young men from East Liverpool, giving their names as Harvey Harris and James Smith, on a charge of disorderly conduct. The young men went to Rock Springs park Thursday afternoon and had evidently been drinking. They refused to leave the grounds when ordered and were taken before Mayor Mercer who imposed a fine of $5 and costs to the dead letter office.

A Pleasant Party.

The evening was very pleasantly spent at the home of Miss Clara Smith, on Phoenix avenue, by a large number of young people who gathered together in honor of Miss Lena Russell, who will shortly go to Hammondsburg to spend the summer. There were games and refreshments served.

Concrete Work Begun.

Work on the concrete sewer to connect the new lake with the brick sewer at the park has been begun by Contractor Hugh Johnston. The contractor states that if the weather continues to moderate he will put on a large force of workmen and push the work as rapidly as possible.

Old Soldiers to Meet.

The old soldiers of New Cumberland will hold a meeting at the office of the James Porter brick works, in that city, on the evening of May 5. The meeting is for the purpose of making arrangements for the celebration of Memorial day.

CHESTER NOTES.

James Brannon, Jr., of New Cumberland, was a Chester visitor today. The small boy has already begun the collection of campaign cards. He is as much interested in the pursuit as in playing marbles and will no doubt cause a few of the candidates to order extra supplies.

WILL NOT OPPOSE THE BRIDGE PROJECT

Councilman Cannon Believes His Position in the Matter Is Misunderstood.

Councilman Cannon, of the Fourth ward, who has been strongly opposed to the transfer of the Fifth street lot from the city to the Newell Bridge company, has been generally misunderstood in the position he has taken. His opposition to the gift of the lot to the company has led many to believe that he is opposed to the building of the bridge, but this is not the case.

He stated yesterday that he believes the city is doing enough for the company in granting it a franchise over the streets, and that in view of the city's poverty the company should pay a reasonable price for the lots needed for the East Liverpool approach to the bridge. In all other respects Councilman Cannon is heartily in favor of the project and thinks it will be a grand thing for the city.

The measure was introduced in the house by Mr. Crist and was killed by the taxation committee, of which Mr. Crist is the chairman, he being the only member favoring the measure.

Mr. Crist stated last night that the house would pass the bill under suspension of rules as soon as it came from the senate, which will be today.

The house passed the Moore state depository bill, which will net the state a respectable sum annually. It establishes depositories for the state's funds which will be loaned out to banks on interest. The governor also urged the passage of this bill.

Elected Old Officers.

The Island Avenue Land company held its annual meeting last night, at which reports of the officers were received. S. J. Cripps, president, and J. W. Gipner, secretary and treasurer, were re-elected.

OBITUARY

John D. Harbaugh.

Lisbon, April 23.—(Special)—Ex-Sheriff John D. Harbaugh died at his home here at 7 o'clock last evening after a long illness with kidney trouble, which developed into uremic poisoning a few days ago. Mr. Harbaugh was 65 years old the 17th of last month. He was born on the old Harbaugh homestead in Hepner's hollow, a mile south of town, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan T. Harbaugh. He spent nearly all his life in Lisbon and vicinity. Enlisting here August 11, 1862, in Company K, One Hundred and Fourth regiment, Ohio Volunteer Infantry, under Captain William J. Jordan, of Lisbon, he served to the close of the war, being mustered out with his regiment at Greensboro, N. C., June 17, 1865. Soon after his enlistment he was made sergeant and on March 21, 1864, on account of ill health, was transferred to the Veteran Reserve corps. In 1883 he was made the Republican candidate for sheriff in place of Fred Galley, who became incapacitated during his first term. Mr. Harbaugh filled the position two terms with credit, closing his incumbency in 1887. During Governor McKinley's administration he was a visitors attendant in the capitol at Columbus.

WRANGLING CONTINUES OVER SCHOOL CODE

Conference Report Rejected By the House Today After a Stormy Session.

Columbus, April 23.—(Special)—By a vote of 55 to 43 the house of representatives, after the stormiest fight of the session, rejected the reports of the conference committee on the elastic school code.

The house insists on the small board plan and has asked the senate for another conference, each house to have five representatives. If the senate insists on its plan the legislature will adjourn without enacting a school code.

HONORED IN DEATH

Four Ministers and Many Friends Pay Tribute to the Late R. M. Cunningham.

Many of the friends of the late Robert M. Cunningham were unable to gain admission to the M. E. church during the funeral services which were held yesterday afternoon. Several hundred persons were in attendance and the services were very pathetic. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Blackmore, of the M. E. church, assisted by all the other Chester ministers, Rev. W. B. Gillis, of the U. P. church, Rev. J. W. Dunbar, of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. Mr. Carroll, of the Free Methodist church.

Mrs. Celina Chamberlain, aged almost 90 years, died at her home in Calcutta yesterday afternoon from dropsy and the infirmities of age. She had been a sufferer for many months and death came not unexpectedly. The funeral arrangements could not be learned this afternoon. Mrs. Chamberlain was one of the oldest women in Columbiana county and was widely known throughout the neighborhood.

She possessed a very vigorous and active mind that remained unimpaired almost to the hour of her death. She was very outspoken in her views, kind and generous to her friends, but implacable with her enemies. Mrs. Chamberlain had lived on her farm just this side of Calcutta for many years. Her husband, Joseph Chamberlain, Sr., died four years ago and she is survived by two sons, Crawford and James Chamberlain.

Mrs. Calvin West.

Mrs. Pearl West, aged 33 years, wife of Calvin West, died at 6 o'clock this morning at her home on Seventh street, from tuberculosis. She had been in poor health for two years and seriously ill for seven weeks. The funeral services will be held at the home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the interment will be made in Spring Grove cemetery. Mrs. West was born and reared in Charleston, W. Va., and is survived by her mother and several sisters. She has no near relatives here.

A SPECIAL MEETING

Of Chester Council May Be Called for Monday Night to Attend to Urgent Matters.

It is likely that a special meeting of the Chester council will be held on Monday evening, if the members of that body are able to be present. Mayor Mercer is very anxious for the meeting, as matters pertaining to the improvement of the condition of the streets are very imperative, and no time should be lost in having the work begun if it is expected to complete it in time to be of any benefit to the citizens when it will be most appreciated.

It is certainly up to the members of the council to be in attendance at the meeting on Monday night if one is called, as they have done nothing in the matter for the past two weeks toward making any headway. It is expected that the committee which was to work in conjunction with Engineer Kelly in recommending a method of making the improvements will be ready to report.

THE MOCK TRIAL

Given Under the Auspices of the U. P. Church a Most Amusing Entertainment.

In the neighborhood of 500 persons were present at the park pavilion last evening to hear the mock trial given by the members of the United Presbyterian church. It was a very pleasant entertainment and the audience was kept in an uproar of laughter during the entire performance.

Miss Mary McDonald was the plaintiff in the breach of promise suit brought against Thomas Pierpont Morgan Faintheart, better known in private life as James Finley. A large amount of evidence was submitted on each side and the jury had considerable trouble in awarding the verdict which was finally decided in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $50,000. The entertainment netted a neat sum for the treasury of the church.

A cloud of witnesses were present. The Clover club contingent consisted of Peter A. Pugh, Al McDonald, H. A. Allison and other candidates. Letters were read on both sides. Though spicy they were unobjectionable in their terms, as a rule. Attorney Moore's pleading was good. The speech of the evening was made by Attorney Ingram, who gave a strong and able plea. The lady witnesses made a fine impression and did not speak so low as not to be heard, as some of the men did. The affair netted about $75 and was a success in every particular.

The house passed the Moore state depository bill, which will net the state a respectable sum annually. It establishes depositories for the state's funds which will be loaned out to banks on interest. The governor also urged the passage of this bill.

The house passed the Moore state depository bill, which will net the state a respectable sum annually. It establishes depositories for the state's funds which will be loaned out to banks on interest. The governor also urged the passage of this bill.

The mysterious addressed letter that has been received at the Chester post office is now being submitted to the patrons for their interpretation. Thomas Oaks claims that it is addressed to the parties who blew up the safe and wants the party who calls for the letter arrested.

Others claim that it was addressed to "Squire Johnston" by one of the young maidens who attended a picnic at the park last summer. This the squire denies, and says he believes it is a notice sent out by Mayor Mercer to those who allow their chickens to run at large. The mayor is supposed to have figured up the number of chickens on the envelope and forgotten to address it. It will be soaked in water before it is sent to the dead letter office.

Arrested at the Park.

Sergeant Rose arrested two young men from East Liverpool, giving their names as Harvey Harris and James Smith, on a charge of disorderly conduct. The young men went to Rock Springs park Thursday afternoon and had evidently been drinking. They refused to leave the grounds when ordered and were taken before Mayor Mercer who imposed a fine of $5 and costs.

A Pleasant Party.

The evening was very pleasantly spent at the home of Miss Clara Smith, on Phoenix avenue, by a large number of young people who gathered together in honor of Miss Lena Russell, who will shortly go to Hammondsburg to spend the summer. There were games and refreshments served.

Concrete Work Begun.

Work on the concrete sewer to connect the new lake with the brick sewer at the park has been begun by Contractor Hugh Johnston. The contractor states that if the weather continues to moderate he will put on a large force of workmen and push the work as rapidly as possible.

Old Soldiers to Meet.

The old soldiers of New Cumberland will hold a meeting at the office of the James Porter brick works, in that city, on the evening of May 5. The meeting is for the purpose of making arrangements for the celebration of Memorial day.

SHERIFF JOHNSON SERVES NOTICES IN WELLSVILLE.

Saloonkeepers Indicted By Grand Jury Asked to Be At Lisbon At Next Session of Court.

Sheriff Albert Johnson, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Henry Thorne, served notices on many Wellsville saloonkeepers yesterday afternoon to be in Lisbon next Monday, to enter their plea to the charges found against them by the last grand jury. When Sheriff Johnson arrived in Wellsville yesterday morning he would not tell how many notices he had to serve, but late last evening this list was handed out. All are expected to appear before common pleas court at its next session, which will be Monday.

The list for slot machines is: Joseph Geisse, William Jarvis, Smith & Bailey, Wilbur Rose, Thomas Ford, James Nelson, Henry Patterson, William Higginson, A. C. David, Hugh Woods, James Walters, George Noble, Samuel Brubaker, Mrs. Iona Dennis and John Sheehan.

Ollie Pinkerton is charged with furnishing liquors to minors as is also Nick Puch. A similar charge is filed against Fred Eckley.

It was said by some of those indicted last evening that before the trip to Lisbon was made, probably all those who have been asked to go to Lisbon would probably consult their attorneys before leaving Wellsville. Some of these people have no fear of the outcome of their cases, claiming that when given a hearing, they will have naught to fear.

The presumption prevails that others besides those above mentioned will be served with a notice to take a trip to Lisbon, but if such is the case, their names are not being made public.

A KNIFE DRAWN BY A PASSENGER

EXCITEMENT ON A.C. & P. TRAIN YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Brakeman Said to Have Been Threatened—The Matter to Be Probed By Railroad People.

Whether or not a person has the right to pull a knife upon a passenger brakeman will probably be decided at a hearing in Cleveland today.

According to the story told, soon after train No. 303 left Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon a traveling magazine correspondent, who signs himself as C. Copeland, of Boston, Mass., turned a seat and when he was told by Brakeman Zebinecker that it was against the rules of the company to have the seats turned it is claimed that Copeland pulled a knife on the trainman. One word brought on another and for a time it is said matters grew interesting.

The climax was reached at Wellsville. Three railroad detectives met the train yesterday afternoon and Mr. Copeland got off the train. "Where is the chief dispatcher's office?" he asked. Right behind him was another railroad officer with the suit case, umbrella and overcoat of Mr. Copeland in his hands.

"Telephone to any newspaper in Pittsburgh and you can soon find out who I am," he said. "And now, young man, tell me your name," said Mr. Copeland to the brakeman.

Copeland remained in Wellsville.

until the midnight train came. Most of that time he was closeted with railroad detectives, but he was not under arrest. He left for Cleveland with Trainmaster A. J. Dawson and Lieutenant of Detectives Jewell. At Cleveland the affair will be sifted. Conductor Cash McKee and his train crew will be there, and all the head officers of the police force.

Copeland does not deny that he pulled the knife, but he says it was not opened and that the trainman was the aggressor.

Chairman Catlett, of the committee which is in charge of the banquet to be given by the Wellsville Business Men's Protective association next Thursday evening in the auditorium of the Wellsville city hall, has announced the program for the evening. It is a most clever affair. The best speakers in Wellsville have been obtained for the event, all of which is sure to eclipse anything of the kind ever held in the city.

Samuel S. Cope will be the toast master. Following are the toasts: Address, Mayor W. L. Fogo; music, Woods' orchestra; "Merchants' Associations," Daniel F. Steiner; "Loyalty to Home Markets One of the Means of Success," P. M. Smith; music, Woods' orchestra; "Mercantile Organizations and Their Accomplishments," George B. Aten; "Scraps," Frank Wells; "The Ideal Merchant," W. E. Butler; music, Woods' orchestra; "Advance of Wellsville in the Past Ten Years," Prof. J. L. MacDonald; address, Justice J. L. Riley.

The menu of the evening will be prepared by Mrs. Elwood Bunting and is as follows:

French Peas with Mushrooms
(Served in timbales).
Fruit Gelatine
Chicken Salad Reception Flakes
Olives and Pickles
Brick Ice Cream
Watermelon Cake Marble Cake
Coffee Salted Almonds
Strawberries
Candies

Plates for the banquet are being rapidly engaged by the business men of Wellsville. In fact, a number of business men of East Liverpool are expected to attend, for some have already advised the committee of their intention of so doing. The banquet will commence at 8 o'clock, Wellsville time.

MORE DELEGATES OF DEMOCRATS

TWO SETS WILL GO FROM THIS CITY TO THE ALLIANCE CONVENTION.

WHICH IS BONA FIDE

A QUESTION THAT THE CONVENTION WILL HAVE TO DETERMINE—EACH CLAIMS THAT IT IS GENUINE AND LEGALLY CONSTITUTED.

The second mass meeting of the local Democracy was held in the council chamber at city hall last evening in pursuance with the call issued by City Chairman J. J. Weisend. The meeting was called ostensibly for the purpose of selecting the delegates and alternates to the Democratic congressional convention to be held at Alliance on Friday, May 6, but the opportunity was also taken to express views on the action of several members of the party headed by Ed Cook and J. C. Walsh, who held a meeting last Saturday evening and selected the delegates and alternates.

The latter claimed that they held their meeting regularly under the call of County Chairman Foley, of Salem, and that the caucuses were held on that evening all over the county. Those in attendance at the meeting last evening claim that the meeting should have been called by the city chairman and that their meeting is the only one that will stand.

Chairman Weisend was in the chair and Secretary Crawford and 15 other members of the party were in attendance. A delegation of seven was present from the First ward. The object of the meeting was stated and Mr. Miskall moved a committee of three be appointed for the purpose of selecting the delegates and alternates to the convention. This was carried and the chair appointed Messrs. Miskall, J. W. Hall and Lawrence Allison. In a few moments the committee returned and submitted the following report:

Delegates—J. J. Weisend, M. E. Miskall, T. J. Duffy, Allen Fink and James McKenna.

Alternates—W. M. Elliott, John W. Hall, Thomas Lynch, Thomas Starkey, Walter Stewart and Frank Fisher.

Some one asked where the credentials would be secured and the chairman informed them that he would have them prepared. The chair stated that he thought it would also be a good thing to select the city and township ticket when the Democracy meets again in the near future for the purpose of selecting the delegates to the county convention.

After a collection had been taken up to pay for the advertising of the meeting adjournment was had.

The action of the meeting means that there will be two sets of delegates from this city in the convention at Alliance, as the Cook-Walsh faction claim that their meeting was regularly held and that the delegates selected at that time are the only ones that can be seated.

PLAYING GREAT BALL

George Westlake Now in Texas, Is Winning Golden Opinions.

Robert Westlake, who is catching ball for the Corsicana, Texas, team, is laid up with a crippled hand. He was hit on the little finger by a curve ball and a tendon was ruptured and one of the fingers of his right hand cracked. He will be unable to play for some little time. George is now playing on the team in left field. The Corsicana Courier has the following to say of him in a game which made four straight:

"George Westlake brought the grand stand down in the fifth inning by making a hit with the wrong end of his bat. He also made a sensational catch in the fourth, robbing Dawkins of a hit; he dived into it and rolled on the ground, but hung to the ball."

The Corsicana team won the Silver trophy cup valued at $290, put up by the Cotton Belt railroad. They won 5 out of 7 games.

Anxious For Games.

The Imperials of the city are anxious to meet any 13 or 14 year old team in or out of the city. They desire all communications addressed to James Cook, 219 College street. A Tin Mill Team.

A movement is on foot for the organization of a baseball team by the employees of the Chester tin mill. There are a number of good players employed at the mill and they expect to be able to put a strong aggregation in the field for the season. Another meeting of the prospective members of the team will be held the first of the week, when the uniforms will be selected.

Benefit Dance.

The members of the East End Grays baseball team have made arrangements for the holding of a dance at Columbian park on the evening of Monday, May 2. The proceeds of the dance will be used in purchasing the supplies of the team for the coming season. It is expected that there will be a large attendance as quite a number of tickets have already been disposed of.

Neidermeyer, Marx and Vandine Executed for Murder at Chicago Carbarns.

GUILTY OF OTHER KILLINGS

Neidermeyer, Leader of Gang, Refused Religious Consolation to End—Was Too Weak to Walk to Scaffold—Mother Pleads in Vain.

Chicago, April 23.—Atheist to the last but seemingly unnerved completely, Peter Neidermeyer, the leader of the carbarn bandits, was hanged from a chair, contrasting with his companions in crime, Gustav Marx and Harvey Vandine, who, standing erect, kissed an image of Christ and died without tremor. The three executions were 20 minutes apart, the same scaffold being used for all.

The crime for which the three bandits paid the penalty was one of eight murders which the three men are known to have committed—that of Francis W. Stewart, a clerk in the carbarns of the Chicago city railway.

Neidermeyer had boasted continually of his courage, but as the last moments approached he collapsed and was unable to take three consecutive steps of a march to the gallows.

Dr. McNamara, the jail physician, had visited Neidermeyer previously and said that Neidermeyer's physical condition was satisfactory. The bandit leader himself told Deputy Sheriff Peters, who appeared with the death warrant, that the last walk would be without aid. Deputy Peters then read the document, and Neidermeyer started from his cell. He had gone only two steps when he sank, and it was found it would be necessary to lift him to the scaffold.

Carried to Scaffold.

Immediately Neidermeyer's feet were strapped together. He was handcuffed, placed upon a hospital truck and wheeled to the end of a tier of cells. Then three deputies carried him down a flight of stairs. Entirely contrary to general expectation Neidermeyer made no effort at resistance. Saying nothing, and appearing almost in a daze, he was seated upon a chair, placed over the trap of the scaffold.

No minister or priest accompanied Neidermeyer, he having finally said, when offered a last opportunity before leaving his cell, he would die as he had lived, an atheist.

PETER NEIDERMEYER.

The shroud and hood were quickly adjusted. The bandit instinctively moving his head that the rope might more easily be arranged, took a last glance at the spectators. He appeared as if in a stupor. A moment later, at 10:35 o'clock, the trap fell, the chair being quickly removed from behind as the body shot downward. The shroud became partly disarranged and fearful muscular struggles of the dying man continued for 15 minutes in view of the witnesses of the execution.

Neck Broken by Drop.
The convulsive movements of Neidermeyer's body while he was suspended at the rope's end led the physicians at first to believe that he had horribly strangled to death. After an official examination, however, it was said his neck had been broken. Shortly before the hanging Neidermeyer's mother had asked to be admitted to the jail, but her request was refused.

In the opinion of some witnesses Neidermeyer was half crazed when the death warrant was read. He became angry and protested against execution, saying he did not wish to disgrace his family.

"Peters," said the prisoner, "let me look at that warrant." After excitedly reading the paper, Neidermeyer nervously folded it and started to put it in his pocket.

"You can't do that," said the chief deputy. "I have to return that to the court."

Neidermeyer looked up quickly with a ghastly smile said: "I want to take this along with me to prove a case of murder. I may want to make a complaint to St. Peter." He also entered into a discussion with the deputy sheriff on murder.

REALM OF SPORTS

PLAYING GREAT BALL

George Westlake Now in Texas, is winning Golden Opinions.

Robert Westlake, who is catching ball for the Corsicana, Texas, team, is laid up with a crippled hand. He was hit on the little finger by a curve ball and a tendon was ruptured and one of the fingers of his right hand cracked. He will be unable to play for some little time. George is now playing on the team in left field. The Corsicana Courier has the following to say of him in a game which made four straights:

"George Westlake brought the grand stand down in the fifth inning by making a hit with the wrong end of his bat. He also made a sensational catch in the fourth, robbing Dawkins of a hit; he dived into it and rolled on the ground, but hung to the ball."

The Corsicana team won the Silver trophy cup valued at $299, put up by the Cotton Belt railroad. They won 5 out of 7 games.

Anxious For Games.

The Imperials of the city are anxious to meet any 13 or 14 year old team in or out of the city. They desire all communications addressed to James Cook, 219 College street. The lineup of the Imperials is as follows: James Cook, catcher; James Webb, Harry Nells and Clyde Van Fossan, pitchers; Dick Duncan, short stop; Andy Price, first base; Ray Dickey, second base; Will Munday, third base; Harry Nells, left field; Will Strand, middle; James Webb, right field.

A Tin Mill Team.

A movement is on foot for the organization of a baseball team by the employees of the Chester tin mill. There are a number of good players employed at the mill and they expect to be able to put a strong aggregation in the field for the season. Another meeting of the prospective members of the team will be held the first of the week, when the uniforms will be selected.

Benefit Dance.

The members of the East End Grays baseball team have made arrangements for the holding of a dance at Columbian park on the evening of Monday, May 2. The proceeds of the dance will be used in purchasing the supplies of the team for the coming season. It is expected that there will be a large attendance as quite a number of tickets have already been disposed of.

Time is Short.

Only three more weeks remain before the time expires on the News Review amateur baseball contest. The Franklin Athletic club leads, closely followed by a Wellsville team.

To conduct a prosperous business, it is reliability and integrity which count. Billings-Chapin's pure prepared paints are reliable, durable and honestly made.

Mommsen's "Roman History."

Some one has well said that but for the "Roman History" Mommsen would be a great man "taken on faith." That is probably true, but we have the "Roman History," perhaps the most remarkable piece of German literature written in the middle of the nineteenth century. It is a wonderful testimony to the power of humanity over humanity that the most human work which Mommsen wrote should be the most popular. The "Roman History" was the expression of the whole man, and if ever it should cease to have value as Roman history it will never cease to be of value as a spiritual document, as a picture of the hopes and ideals of Theodor Mommsen. By a happy chance when the book was brought into the world it appeared in the naked simplicity of its narrative without the swaddling clothes of footnotes and sources. The clear cut style showed forth to its best advantage. The world at large took its statements as facts. Scholars were at liberty to test them in other books of Mommsen himself or of other men.—Professor Jesse B. Carter in Atlantic.

The Sanitation of Ant Cities.

Insects are scrupulously clean in their personal toilet and often brush, comb and wash themselves, a service for which they are admirably provided with natural implements. This habit is transferred to communal affairs. The streets within the city bounds and the gates and external plaza and "country roads" leading into the foraging fields, as with agricultural ants, are kept free from filth and obstructions that might gather filth. The constant washings and combings of baby ants by the nurses would satisfy the most fastidious maternal taste. One may not say that sanitation is an exact emanation of science, but it certainly is an art thoroughly practiced in every department of the formicary and brought to perfection as far as natural conditions will permit. Every insect citizen takes part in this service. All ants unite to keep their civic precincts clean.—H. C. McCook in Harper's Magazine.

A Beautiful Art.

Without disparagement of any of the other arts, to attain proficiency in which people make such long and valiant struggles, it may be truly said that the one art of smiling warms more hearts than all others together. Most children—in fact, all happy children—have an unconscious mastery of this beautiful art, but unfortunately they often lose it as they grow older. Children are the best judges of smiles in the world. "Her lips smile," said a child, speaking of a hard faced woman, "but she doesn't." A widening of the mouth in a vain endeavor to look pleasant is not a smile. It deceives nobody. A smile, to be worthy of the name, must come from the heart. It is the result of an honest willingness and readiness to be pleased with little as well as great things.

"I See Your Finish."

Said Mr. Brown to Mr. Jones, when the latter was painting his house with Green Seal Liquor Paint. And for several years he continued to see Mr. Jones' finish. It was that beautiful finish that stays on after using "Green Seal." It's on sale now at the Milligan Hardware & Supply company.

BANDITS ARE HANGED

Neidermeyer, Marx and Vandine Executed for Murder at Chicago Carbarns.

GUILTY OF OTHER KILLINGS

Neidermeyer, Leader of Gang, Refused Religious Consolation to End—Was Too Weak to Walk to Scaffold—Mother Pleads in Vain.

Chicago, April 23.—Athlete to the last but seemingly unnerved completely, Peter Neidermeyer, the leader of the carbarn bandits, was hanged from a chain, contrasting with his companions in crime, Gustav Marx and Harvey Vandine, who, standing erect, kissed an image of Christ and died without a tremor. The three executions were 20 minutes apart, the same scaffold being used for all.

The crime for which the three bandits paid the penalty was one of eight murders which the three men are known to have committed—that of Francis W. Stewart, a clerk in the carbarns of the Chicago city railway.

Neidermeyer had boasted continually of his courage, but as the last moments approached he collapsed and was unable to take three consecutive steps of a march to the gallows.

Dr. McNamara, the jail physician, had visited Neidermeyer previously and said that Neidermeyer's physical condition was satisfactory. The bandit leader himself told Deputy Sheriff Peters, who appeared with the death warrant, that the last walk would be without aid. Deputy Peters then read the document and Neidermeyer started from his cell. He had gone only two steps when he sank, and it was found it would be necessary to lift him to the scaffold.

Carried to Scaffold.

Immediately Neidermeyer's feet were strapped together. He was handcuffed, placed upon a hospital truck and wheeled to the end of a tier of cells. Then three deputies carried him down a flight of stairs. Entirely contrary to general expectation Neidermeyer made no effort at resistance. Saying nothing, and appearing almost in a daze, he was seated upon a chair, placed over the trap of the scaffold.

No minister or priest accompanied Neidermeyer, he having finally said, companion for having made the confession which led to their capture.

When the body of Neidermeyer had been removed Marx walked slowly to the scaffold with several priests, after having confessed, repented and received the last sacraments, as did Vandine, both men having been converted to the Roman Catholic faith following the death sentence. Marx, like Vandine, was neatly attired in black and in the coat lapel of each was a white rose. Neidermeyer, unlike his comrades, wore a rose of dark red. Marx showed no emotion while on the scaffold and in a steady voice repeated a litany after the priests. He fervently kissed the crucifix and at 11:17 o'clock was hanged. His neck was broken.

Noose Dangles Before Him.

The execution of Vandine was varied by a curious incident. While he were on the drop praying and waiting for his arms to be pinioned and his legs secured, the noose fell from the cross piece of the gallows and dangled

before the eyes of the bandit about to die.

Disregarding the noose the bandit continued praying steadily to the end.

Death in his case, as that of Marx, was immediately evident as not being due to strangulation, but to the fall.

Mrs. Vandine, the mother of the last of the bandits, was at Buda, Ill.,

pleading with Governor Yates almost up to the time of the execution.

She sought to delay the execution in the case of her son on the ground that he was an epileptic. The governor, however,

VIGILANT WATCH

Why Boards of Health Are Necessary

For the Public Health. A member of the board of health recently said: "You would be surprised to know the negligence and indifference that exists in regard to the first principles of sanitary laws and the public health. Some of the well-to-do are often offenders in this respect."

"Consequently, a vigilant watch is necessary to stamp out germ-breeding spots, with their menace to the health of the community."

People show the same kind of negligence and indifference in regard to the care of their bodies but they have no board of health to warn them, ever on the alert to drive out the impurities. They must be their own board of health for the care of their individual bodies.

With scrofula, the body is in a favorable condition for the growth of disease germs and microbes, the impurities in the blood, the cause of scrofula, affording the same opportunity for the development of other diseases as do the unhealthy spots for the suppression of which boards of health are organized.

Father John's Medicine cures scrofula and all skin diseases by driving out the impurities, toning up the stomach and nervous system. It is free of alcohol or injurious drugs or narcotics. An eminent specialist prescribed this medicine for the late Rev. Fr. John O'Brien, of Lowell, Mass., 50 years ago, by whom it was recommended, and from whom it derived its name.

It is a food medicine for the blood and nerves, and enables the organs of the body to properly perform their work. Taken after any exposure, it prevents colds, cures all throat and lung troubles.

"No."

Cross-examined—"State whether or not the record of the police department was talked of prior to the mayoralty contest?"

"Yes, I have always taken an interest in the good of the community. I knew that Dawson was a member of a certain order that would have bearing on his morality."

"Did you find any qualification of the officers that would fit them for leadership?"
"No, Sir."

"You say he belonged to an order that you could not approve of?"
"I thought that his associates were not good because he belonged to the order. I object to the saloonkeepers."

"Do you know that President Roosevelt belongs to the Eagles?"
"Well, it is a pity; no, I did not know it."

J. H. Dawson, safety board member, made a general denial of all allegations made by previous witnesses concerning his statements and actions. Later on, however, he recanted some of his denials and said he could not remember exactly, and that he might be mistaken. Questioned as to Officer Morris, he said: "I have known Morris for ten years. I first met him at the Y. M. C. A. I knew Dawson four years before he was appointed, but did not know Aufderheldo or Dunn. I would not think that there is one among the police good enough for appointment to the chiefship."

"You say you had to yield to the police on the ringing in question?"
"Yes, sir."

"Is not the one hour system satisfactory?"
"No, sir; because we cannot get a policeman when we want one. The order has never been changed and we have not adopted the hour system."

"Who prepared the petition?"
"Mr. Brookes and I."

"I am not to pay or help pay for the attorneys. I did not have anything to do with hiring Brookes or Billingsley."

"Did you sign the petition?"
"No, sir."

"Why?"
"Because I did not want to. I did say to McNicol that the council proposed to take the action to oust Wyman. I deny all that Mengert, McNicol, Bullock and Morley said. I did not know at the time that Wyman would be a candidate and that is as true as anything I have testified to. Mayor Weaver was next called and said: "The problem that confronted me was one of great moment at that time. The old force had been serving under an open town and the police were discredited. I believed it would take a stronger man than the force at that time contained. I did not believe any of them able to cope with the condition and lead seven other men. That was the reason I went outside the department."

"Was there a man serving as marshal when you went into office?"

"Yes."

"What time of night did you appoint Wyman?"

"At 11 o'clock."

"How did you happen to be there at that time?"

"I don't remember."

"Did you stay up to hear the report, so you could appoint Wyman?"

"Well, he was appointed at 11 o'clock."

"How soon after he was certified?"

"About 15 minutes."

"Now, weren't you staying up purposely to appoint Wyman?"

The witness would not answer.

"Did you ask Wyman to be there that night?"

"No, sir."

"Did he know he was going to get appointed?"

"I don't believe he did."

"Did he just happen in?"

"I don't know."

"Did T. V. Thompson ever apply to you for office of chief?"

"Yes, during the month of April. He is not now an applicant and is making no claim for the office."

Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt was the next witness. "Mr. Weaver is a member of the M. E. church," said the minister. "He is a trustee, usher and Sunday school teacher. John Wyman is also a member. He is a trustee."

When Mayor Weaver was nominated took you an active interest?"

Yes, I did.

Did you hold political meetings in the opera house on Sunday?

No, I gave an address.

When Weaver was elected you naturally talked with him?

Yes, I have seen him.

You saw him a number of times?

No, I did not.

Did you talk to him any before May?

Only in church when I met him.

Did you meet him any place else?

Yes, at my house on Friday before he took office. He made me a call. My wife was there, but no one outside the family.

Did you talk about city affairs?

I should say we did.

What was mentioned?

The comfort we all took in the victory.

Anything else?

It is difficult to specify. I remember of informing him that I was going to the mineral springs, but without deference to newspapers, I refused to go.

What was said about appointments?

PLENTY OF PROOF

From People You Know—From East Liverpool Citizens.

The greatest skeptic can hardly fail to be convinced in the face of evidence like this. It is impossible to produce better proof of merit than the testimony of residents of East Liverpool—of people who can be seen at any time. Read the following case of:

Mrs. Mount, of 165 Fourth street, says: "If weakness across the loins and sharp pains in the back are any indication of kidney complaint, then I had it. I knew what caused the trouble, but how to check it was a mystery until my husband procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy for himself. The result in his case was so satisfactory that I used two or three boxes. They cured me and up to the present date there has been no symptoms of recurrence."

I was informed that he had arranged for some appointments.

Was Wyman's name mentioned?

I think not. It was not, according to my remembrance.

Did you go to Weaver's house that night?

Yes.

What did you go for?

To make a call.

What reference to politics did it have?

I had nothing to do with politics that night. We did not talk over any appointments.

Were others there?

There were several. C. F. Boug, Mr. Faulk and M. E. Golding.

What was said by anybody to the mayor about the appointing of a chief?

I heard enough to know the subject was under discussion. I won't say it certainly was.

What did you say on the chief matter?

Nothing.

Was Wyman there that evening?

Not to my knowledge.

What did you hear the mayor say relative to the chiefship?

Nothing.

Did you protest against Charles Gill?

No.

Did you ever recommend Wyman?

No. I did not recommend him.

Did you ever say anything to the mayor about Wyman?

I heard enough to know the subject was under discussion. I won't say it certainly was.

Are you playing on words?

Certainly not.

You say you have never recommended Wyman?

Yes.

Did you ever mention the subject of chief to the board of safety?

I cannot recall it.

Did you not talk to Mr. Taylor?

I did not see him. I have no knowledge or recollection of ever passing a word on it.

When did you take the celebrated trip to Columbus?

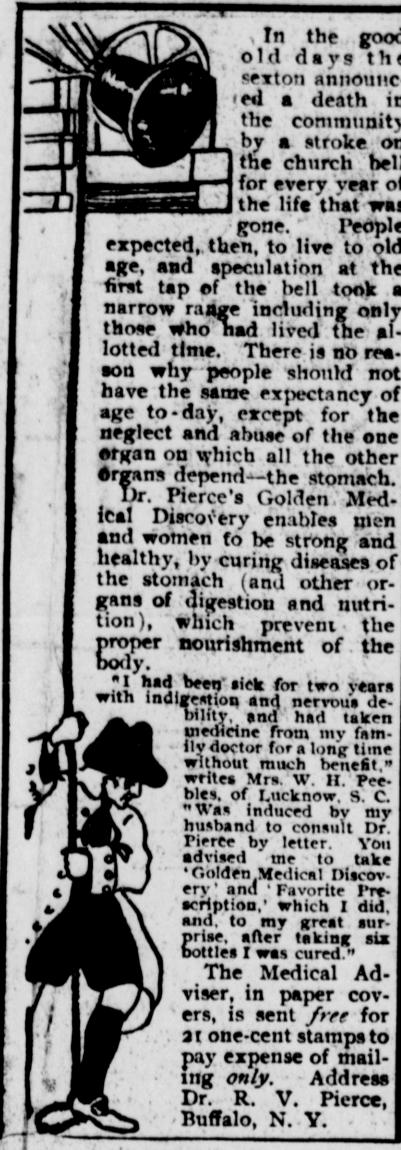

I don't remember the particular date.

Did you go with Mr. Golding?

Yes.

What did you go for?

J. H. Dawson, safety board member, made a general denial of all allegations made by previous witnesses concerning his statements and actions. Later on, however, he recanted some of his denials and said he could not remember exactly and that he might be mistaken. Questioned as to Officer Morris, he said: "I have known Morris for ten years. I first met him at the Y. M. C. A. I knew Dawson four years before he was appointed, but did not know Aufderheide or Dunn. I would not think that there is one among the police good enough for appointment to the chiefship."

"You say you had to yield to the police on the ringing in question?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is not the one hour system satisfactory?"

"No, sir; because we cannot get a policeman when we want one. The order has never been changed and we have not adopted the hour system."

"Who prepared the petition?"

"Mr. Brooks and I."

"I am not to pay or help pay for the attorneys. I did not have anything to do with hiring Brooks or Billingsley."

"Did you sign the petition?"

"No, sir."

"Why?"

"Because I did not want to. I did say to McNicol that the council proposed to take the action to oust Wyman. I deny all that Mengert, McNicol, Bullock and Morley said. I did not know at the time that Wyman would be a candidate and that is as true as anything I have testified to. I asked Wyman two days before you (Davidson) appeared before the board if he would be an applicant, and he said, 'Yes, I am just filling out my blank now!'"

Mayor Weaver was next called and said: "The problem that confronted me was one of great moment at that time. The old force had been serving under an open town and the police were discredited. I believed it would take a stronger man than the force at that time contained. I did not believe any of them able to cope with the condition and lead seven other men. That was the reason I went outside the department."

"Was there a man serving as marshal when you went into office?"

"Yes."

"What time of night did you appoint Wyman?"

"At 11 o'clock."

"How did you happen to be there at that time?"

"I don't remember."

"Did you stay up to hear the report, so you could appoint Wyman?"

"Well, he was appointed at 11 o'clock."

"How soon after he was certified?"

"About 15 minutes."

"Now, weren't you staying up purposely to appoint Wyman?"

The witness would not answer.

"Did you ask Wyman to be there that night?"

"No, sir."

"Did he know he was going to get appointed?"

"I don't believe he did."

"Did he just happen in?"

"I don't know."

"Did T. V. Thompson ever apply to you for office of chief?"

"Yes, during the month of April. He is not now an applicant and is making no claim for the office."

Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt was the next witness. "Mr. Weaver is a member of the M. E. church," said the minister. "He is trustee, usher and Sunday school teacher. John Wyman is also a member. He is a trustee."

When Mayor Weaver was nominated you took an active interest?

Yes, I did.

Did you hold political meetings in the opera house on Sunday?

No, I gave an address.

When Weaver was elected you naturally talked with him?

Yes, I have seen him.

You saw him a number of times?

No, I did not.

Did you talk to him any before May 4?

Only in church when I met him.

Did you meet him any place else?

Yes, at my house on Friday before he took office. He made me a call. My wife was there, but no one outside the family.

Did you talk about city affairs?

I should say we did.

What was mentioned?

The comfort we all took in the victory.

Anything else?

It is difficult to specify. I remember informing him that I was going to the mineral springs, but without reference to newspapers, I refused to go.

What was said about appointments?

PLENTY OF PROOF

From People You Know—From East Liverpool Citizens.

The greatest skeptic can hardly fail to be convinced in the face of evidence like this. It is impossible to produce better proof of merit than the testimony of residents of East Liverpool—of people who can be seen at any time. Read the following case of:

Mrs. Mount, of 165 Fourth street, says: "If weakness across the loins and sharp pains in the back are any indication of kidney complaint, then I had it. I knew what caused the trouble, but how to check it was a mystery until my husband procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy for himself. The result in his case was so satisfactory that I used two or three boxes. They cured me and up to the present date there has been no symptoms of a recurrence."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

For sale by W. & W. Pharmacy.

I was informed that he had arranged for some appointments.

Was Wyman's name mentioned?

I think not. It was not, according to my remembrance.

Did you go to Weaver's house that night?

Yes.

What did you go for?

To make a call.

What reference to politics did it have?

I had nothing to do with politics that night. We did not talk over any appointments.

Were others there?

There were several. C. F. Boug, Mr. Faulk and M. E. Golding.

What was said by anybody to the mayor about the appointing of a chief?

I heard enough to know the subject was under discussion. I won't say it certainly was.

What did you say on the chief matter?

Nothing.

Did you protest against Charles Gill?

No.

Did you ever recommend Wyman?

No. I did not recommend him.

Did you ever say anything to the mayor about Wyman?

No. I never did. It was understood on the street that the mayor had decided to appoint Gill. I made no protest.

Are you playing on words?

Certainly not.

You say you have never recommended Wyman?

Yes.

Did you ever mention the subject of chief to the board of safety?

I cannot recall it.

Did you not talk to Mr. Taylor?

I did not see him. I have no knowledge or recollection of ever passing a word on it.

When did you take the celebrated trip to Columbus?

I don't remember the particular date. Did you go with Mr. Golding?

Yes.

What did you go for?

To ask the attorney general a couple of questions.

Who told you to ask them?

The mayor. I went for that purpose.

What did you ask the attorney general?

If the old law provided for nine men could it be reduced? Is it within the province of the mayor to make a temporary appointment?

You were interested enough to go to that trouble. How does it come that you did not mention the chiefship to the mayor?

I have answered that once.

After May 4 you knew that the mayor had not chosen Gill?

The whole city knew it.

Did you talk about Wyman with Weaver?

I don't know that I did.

Did you pay your own expenses to Columbus?

I can't remember.

Why was not the question talked of when you seemed so greatly interested?

I think it sufficient to answer by saying:

Only in church when I met him.

Did you meet him any place else?

Yes, at my house on Friday before he took office. He made me a call. My wife was there, but no one outside the family.

Did you talk about city affairs?

I should say we did.

What was mentioned?

The comfort we all took in the victory.

Anything else?

It is difficult to specify. I remember informing him that I was going to the mineral springs, but without reference to newspapers, I refused to go.

What was said about appointments?

ing that it was not my right to recommend to the mayor.

Was Mr. Golding with you in the attorney general's office?

Yes. I don't think the interview was longer than a minute.

Mayor Weaver was recalled and asked about his conversation with Mr.

Gill on the morning that he turned him down and appointed Mr. Wyman temporary chief. The mayor denied a part of the testimony of Gill, but acknowledged that he had told Gill that

THE LARGENESS OF THE MAN

(Copyright, 1904, by G. L. Kilmer.)

NAPOLEON's secretaries hand down in their memoirs glimpses of Napoleon as they saw him on different occasions. One of them had shared Napoleon's school life at the military college of Brienne. This was Bourrienne, who served the First Consul as private secretary up to 1802. According to Bourrienne, Napoleon's appearance was noteworthy in boyhood. He says:

"When at Brienne, Bonaparte was remarkable for the dark color of his complexion (which subsequently the climate of France somewhat changed), for his piercing and scrutinizing glance and for the style of his conversation."

Writing of Napoleon about the time he assumed the reins of power as first consul, Bourrienne says:

"Bonaparte was now in the prime of life and about thirty. The person of Bonaparte has served as a model for the most skillful painters and sculptors, many able French artists have successfully delineated his features, and yet it may be said that no perfectly faithful portrait of him exists. His finely shaped head, his superb forehead, his pale countenance and his usual meditative look have been transferred to the canvas, but the versatility of his expression was beyond the reach of imitation. All the various workings of his mind were instantaneously depicted in his countenance, and his glance changed from mild to severe and from angry to good humored almost with the rapidity of lightning. It may truly be said that he had a particular look for every thought that arose in his mind.

"Bonaparte had beautiful hands, and he was very proud of them. While conversing he would often look at them with an air of self complacency. He also fancied he had fine teeth, but his pretension to that advantage was not so well founded as his vanity on the score of his hands.

"When walking, either alone or in company with any one, in his apartments or in his gardens, he had the habit of stooping a little and crossing his hands behind his back. He frequently gave an involuntary shrug of his right shoulder, which was accompanied by a movement of his mouth from left to right. This habit was always most remarkable when his mind was absorbed in any deep subject."

"He used often to say to me: 'You see, Bourrienne, how temperate and how thin I am, but in spite of that I cannot help thinking that at forty I shall become a great eater and get very fat. I foresee that my constitution will undergo a change. I take a great deal of exercise, but yet I feel assured that my presentiment will be fulfilled.'

A vein of criticism, more or less marked, runs through the reminiscences of Mme. de Remusat, a close friend and companion of Josephine and her champion in the rupture with Napoleon. The following descriptions of Napoleon's person and of his appearance on state occasions are taken from her memoirs, translated by Mrs. Caswell Hoey and Mr. John Little:

"Napoleon Bonaparte is of low stature and rather ill proportioned. His bust is too long and so shortens the rest of his figure. He has very thin chestnut hair, his eyes are grayish blue, and his skin, which was yellow while he was slight, became in later years a dead white without any color. His forehead, the setting of his eye, the line of his nose—all that is beautiful and reminds one of an antique medallion. His

GEORGE L. KILMER.

The Story of a Discovery.
How many valuable inventions have been the result of pure accident, while in other cases men have puzzled their brains with study for a lifetime and brought forth nothing!

It happened one night that a big starch factory on the banks of the Liffey, near Dublin, took fire, and great puddles of starch and water were left outside.

Some calico printers who had been out all night and were quite tipsy came along toward morning, and one of them stumbled into one of the puddles. He found it so sticky that all his clothes stuck to him so fast that he had to stay in bed next morning till his wife soaked them out.

The man knew from his trade that the starch and water had formed a very powerful and valuable gum. He went back to the place of the fire and investigated, and the result was the discovery of the adhesive gum now used in sticking postage stamps and which has made many rich. But temperance lecturers need not know it—Boston Globe.

A Vivid Imagination.

A furniture dealer tells a little story that shows how some people are constituted. A lady ordered an elegant easy chair of a peculiar kind. It was made and sent to her house. She examined it carefully and critically, finally remarking that it suited her exactly, with one exception—it was too soft. She sent the chair back to be made a trifle harder. It was returned to the shop and put aside. Nothing was done to it. After a lapse of about a week the chair was sent out again. The lady again examined it and now found it too hard. She was sorry, but when she paid so much to get an article for her own comfort she wanted it just right, so she sent it back to the shop for another change. The chair was again put aside for a week or ten days and sent out for the third time without the least alteration. This time it was just right. She took the chair, paid for it and was sorry it had not suited her at first. The poor woman never knew that the chair had not been changed a particle.

Deceptions of Wild Birds.

Falcons, hawks—the largest species—can compress their features and look very slim if they think it necessary to do so. As to the owls, they can hump up into any position they think most suitable. It is useless to look for these self preserving traits in any of the family kept in zoological collections, for the birds are so accustomed to see large numbers of people passing and repassing or standing in front of them that they treat the whole matter with perfect indifference. They know that at a certain time their food will be brought them and that they are otherwise perfectly safe. Then the raptors in a wild state have a bloom on their plumage like the bloom on a bunch of grapes which is not often seen when in captivity.

An Elephant Story.

An elephant train was on its way from Lucknow to Seetapore, and one elephant, becoming lame, knelt down and refused to go on. The elephant next in the column stopped of its own accord and when driven back began without instructions to remove some part of the load. Instances of aid rendered by birds to others in distress may also be found, showing that the instinct of sympathy exists and takes form in action when the causes of the sufferings are such that the fellow bird can understand and see its way to remedy.—London Spectator.

Novel Funeral Instructions.

Curious instructions as to the manner of her burying were left behind by an old lady at Stockport, England. Her funeral, she directed, should be attended by six of the best horsed coaches Stockport could provide, and another direction was that after the interment the funeral party should repair to the best Tory hostelry in Oldham, there to be served with the best repast the house could afford, which was to be supplied by a Tory landlord and served by Tory waiters.

All the various workings of his mind were instantaneously depicted in his countenance, and his mouth, which is thin lipped, becomes agreeable when he laughs. The teeth are regular. His chin is short, and his jaw heavy and square. He has well formed hands and feet. I mention them particularly because he thought a good deal of them."

"He has an habitual slight stoop. His eyes are dull, giving to his face when in repose a melancholy and meditative expression. When he is excited with anger, his looks are fierce and menacing. Laughter becomes him. It makes him look more youthful and less formidable. It is difficult not to like him when he laughs, his countenance improves so much. He was always simple in his dress."

"I have said there was a sort of fascination in the smile of Bonaparte, but during all the time I was in the habit of seeing him he rarely put forth that charm. Gravity was the foundation of his character—not the gravity of a dignified and noble manner, but that which arises from profound thought. In his youth he was a dreamer, later in life he became a moody and later still an habitually ill tempered man."

Being in the suit of the empress at the coronation of Napoleon and Josephine in 1804, Mme. de Remusat was close to the emperor and gives a graphic picture of his costume and presence: "His own costume was brilliant. He was to assume the imperial robes at Notre Dame, but for the present he wore a

"On his arrival at Notre Dame the emperor entered the archiepiscopal palace and there assumed his robes of state. They seemed almost to crush him. His slight frame collapsed under the enormous mantle of ermine. A simple laurel wreath encircled his head. He looked like an antique medallion, but he was extremely pale and genuinely affected. The expression of his countenance was stern and somewhat distressed."

Chateaubriand, the author and statesman, and Kotzebue, the dramatist, describe Napoleon as he appeared about the time of the coronation, in 1804.

"I was in the gallery," says Chateaubriand, "when Napoleon entered. I was agreeably struck by him. I had never seen him before except at a distance. His smile was kindly and delicate. His eyes were admirable, especially from the manner in which they were set under his brow and framed by the eyelashes. There was no pretense in his look, nothing either theatrical or affected."

"He used often to say to me: 'You see, Bourrienne, how temperate and how thin I am, but in spite of that I cannot help thinking that at forty I shall become a great eater and get very fat. I foresee that my constitution will undergo a change. I take a great deal of exercise, but yet I feel assured that my presentiment will be fulfilled.'

NAPOLEON, As Seen by His Associates

THE LARGENESS OF THE MAN

[Copyright, 1904, by G. L. Kilmer.]

NAPOLEON'S secretaries handed down in their memoirs glimpses of Napoleon as they saw him on different occasions. One of them had shared Napoleon's school life at the military college of Brienne. This was Bourrienne, who served the First Consul as private secretary up to 1802. According to Bourrienne, Napoleon's appearance was noteworthy in boyhood. He says:

"When at Brienne, Bonaparte was remarkable for the dark color of his complexion (which subsequently the climate of France somewhat changed), for his piercing and scrutinizing glance and for the style of his conversation."

Writing of Napoleon about the time he assumed the reins of power as first consul, Bourrienne says:

"Bonaparte was now in the prime of life and about thirty. The person of Bonaparte has served as a model for the most skillful painters and sculptors, many able French artists have successfully delineated his features, and yet it may be said that no perfectly faithful portrait of him exists. His finely shaped head, his superb forehead, his pale countenance and his usual meditative look have been transferred to the canvas, but the versatility of his expression was beyond the reach of imitation. All the various workings of his mind were instantaneously depicted in his countenance, and his mouth, which is thin lipped, becomes agreeable when he laughs. The teeth are regular. His chin is short and his jaw heavy and square. He has well formed hands and feet. I mention them particularly because he thought a good deal of them."

"He has an habitual slight stoop. His eyes are dull, giving to his face when in repose a melancholy and meditative expression. When he is excited with anger, his looks are fierce and menacing. Laughter becomes him. It makes him look more youthful and less formidable. It is difficult not to like him when he laughs, his countenance improves so much. He was always simple in his dress."

"I have said there was a sort of fascination in the smile of Bonaparte, but during all the time I was in the habit of seeing him he rarely put forth that charm. Gravity was the foundation of his character—not the gravity of a dignified and noble manner, but that which arises from profound thought. In his youth he was a dreamer, later in life he became a moody and later still an habitually ill-tempered man."

Being in the suit of the emperor at the coronation of Napoleon and Josephine in 1804, Mme. de Remusat was close to the emperor and gives a graphic picture of his costume and presence. "His own costume was brilliant. He was to assume the imperial robes at Notre Dame, but for the present he wore a glance changed from mild to severe and from angry to good humored almost with the rapidity of lightning. It may truly be said that he had a particular look for every thought that arose in his mind.

"Bonaparte had beautiful hands, and he was very proud of them. While conversing he would often look at them with an air of self complacency. He also fancied he had fine teeth, but his pretension to that advantage was not so well founded as his vanity on the score of his hands.

"When walking, either alone or in company with any one, in his apartments or in his gardens, he had the habit of stooping a little and crossing his hands behind his back. He frequently gave an involuntary shrug of his right shoulder, which was accompanied by a movement of his mouth from left to right. This habit was always most remarkable when his mind was absorbed in any deep subject."

Chateaubriand, the author and statesman, and Kotzebue, the dramatist, describe Napoleon as he appeared about the time of the coronation, in 1804.

"I was in the gallery," says Chateaubriand, "when Napoleon entered. I was agreeably struck by him. I had never seen him before except at a distance. His smile was kindly and delicate. His eyes were admirable, especially from the manner in which they were set under his brow and framed by the eyelashes. There was no pretense in his look, nothing either theatrical or affected."

He used often to say to me: 'You see, Bourrienne, how temperate and thin I am, but in spite of that I cannot help thinking that at forty I shall become a great eater and get very fat. I foresee that my constitution will undergo a change. I take a great deal of exercise, but yet I feel assured that my presentiment will be fulfilled.'

A vein of criticism, more or less marked, runs through the reminiscences of Mme. de Remusat, a close friend and companion of Josephine and her champion in the rupture with Napoleon. The following descriptions of Napoleon's person and of his appearance on state occasions are taken from her memoirs, translated by Mrs. Cashel Hoey and Mr. John Little:

"Napoleon Bonaparte is of low stature and rather ill proportioned. His bust is too long and so shortens the rest of his figure. He has thin chestnut hair, his eyes are grayish blue, and his skin, which was yellow while he was slight, became in later years a dead white without any color. His forehead, the setting of his eye, the line of his nose—all that is beautiful and reminds one of an antique medallion. His

All witnesses note the mobility of Napoleon's features. He always looks the part he happened to be playing.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

The Story of a Discovery.
How many valuable inventions have been the result of pure accident, while in other cases men have puzzled their brains with study for a lifetime and brought forth nothing!

It happened one night that a big starch factory on the banks of the Liffey, near Dublin, took fire, and great puddles of starch and water were left outside.

Some calico printers who had been out all night and were quite tipsy came along toward morning, and one of them stumbled into one of the puddles. He found it so sticky that all his clothes stuck to him so fast that he had to stay in bed next morning till his wife soaked them out.

The man knew from his trade that the starch and water had formed a very powerful and valuable gum. He went back to the place of the fire and investigated, and the result was the discovery of the adhesive gum now used in sticking postage stamps and which has made many rich. But temperance lecturers need not know it—Boston Globe.

A Vivid Imagination.

A furniture dealer tells a little story that shows how some people are constituted. A lady ordered an elegant easy chair of a peculiar kind. It was made and sent to her house. She examined it carefully and critically, finally remarking that it suited her exactly, with one exception—it was too soft. She sent the chair back to be made a trifle harder. It was returned to the shop and put aside. Nothing was done to it. After a lapse of about a week the chair was sent out again. The lady again examined it and now found it too hard. She was sorry, but when she paid so much to get an article for her own comfort she wanted it just right, so she sent it back to the shop for another change. The chair was again put aside for a week or ten days and sent out for the third time without the least alteration. This time it was just right. She took the chair, paid for it and was sorry it had not suited her at first. The poor woman never knew that the chair had not been changed a particle.

Deceptions of Wild Birds.

Falcons, hawks—the largest species—can compress their feathers and look very slim if they think it necessary to do so. As to the owls, they can hump up into any position they think most suitable. It is useless to look for these self preserving traits in any of the family kept in zoological collections, for the birds are so accustomed to see large numbers of people passing and repassing or standing in front of them that they treat the whole matter with perfect indifference. They know that at a certain time their food will be brought them and that they are otherwise perfectly safe. Then the raptures in a wild state have a bloom on their plumage like the bloom on a bunch of grapes which is not often seen when in captivity.

An Elephant Story.
An elephant train was on its way from Lucknow to Seetapore, and one elephant, becoming lame, knelt down and refused to go on. The elephant next in the column stopped of its own accord and when driven on turned back and began without instructions to remove some part of the load. Instances of aid rendered by birds to others in distress may also be found, showing that the instinct of sympathy exists and takes form in action when the causes of the sufferings are such that the fellow bird can understand and see its way to remedy.—London Spectator.

Novel Funeral Instructions.

Curious instructions as to the manner of her burying were left behind by an old lady at Stockport, England. Her funeral, she directed, should be attended by six of the best horsed coaches Stockport could provide, and another direction was that after the interment the funeral party should repair to the best Tory hostelry in Oldham, there to be served with the best repast the house could afford, which was to be supplied by a Tory landlord and served by Tory waiters.

Willing Acquiescence.
"You must not expect me to give up my girlhood's ways all at once," said the happy bride.

"Oh, I won't," he replied. "I hope you'll keep right on taking an allowance from your father just as if nothing had happened!"—Exchange.

An Ex-Convict.

Jokley—I once heard a man say that he would rather be an ex-convict than anything else he could think of. Folkey—Not at all. The man was in the penitentiary for life.

"On his arrival at Notre Dame the emperor entered the archiepiscopal palace and there assumed his robes of state. They seemed almost to crush him. His slight frame collapsed under the enormous mantle of ermine. A simple laurel wreath encircled his head. He looked like an antique medallion, but he was extremely pale and genuinely affected. The expression of his countenance was stern and somewhat distressed."

Chateaubriand, the author and statesman, and Kotzebue, the dramatist, describe Napoleon as he appeared about the time of the coronation, in 1804.

Chateaubriand had abandoned Napoleon's cause before he wrote this impression and was not a partisan.

"I have never seen a portrait of Bonaparte, either in Germany or France," says Kotzebue, "that really resembles him. The great number, indeed, are not like him at all. The effigy on the five franc pieces struck in the year twelve is faithful. Each time that I look at one I seem to see Bonaparte himself. His profile is Roman—that is to say, grave, noble and expressive. When he is silent he looks cold and even severe, but as soon as he speaks a truly gracious smile renders his mouth very pleasant and inspires confidence immediately."

All witnesses note the mobility of Napoleon's features. He always looked the part he happened to be playing.

Witness in Smoot Case Gives Evidence Against Mormon Church.

Washington, April 23.—A thorough review of Mormon interference in the political affairs of Utah was given by Judge O. W. Powers, the only witness before the senate committee on privileges and elections in the investigation of the protest against Senator Reed Smoot.

Several times efforts were made by counsel for the defense to show that his story was based on hearsay, but the attempts were met with an array of facts taken from signed statements of members of the church, documents which are a part of the records of the state, affidavits of persons present at various places where the church influence was manifested, and other evidence.

Twenty Russians Killed by Explosion of Submarine Mine at Port Arthur.

WAS RESULT OF AN ACCIDENT

Reported at St. Petersburg That Japanese Attempted to Assassinate Gen. Kuropatkin, Commander of the Russian Land Forces.

St. Petersburg, April 23.—Rumors are in circulation that two beggars attempted the assassination of General Kuropatkin when he was in New Chwang a few days ago. It is said that the two beggars succeeded in approaching the general and were talking to him when a guard noticed that one of them put his hand inside his robe. The men were seized and searched and knives were found on them. It is said that the men were Japanese. The rumors cannot be confirmed.

The senate passed the house bills amending the laws regulating the Ohio national guard and bringing them into conformity with the Disk law. The senate also passed the Bronson bill providing that either political party may hold primary elections upon demand of the controlling committee, the expense to be borne by the city or county, and the board of deputy state supervisors to have charge. The house passed a bill placing electric suburban and interurban railway lines under taxation laws applying to steam railroads.

The senate adopted a resolution providing that the governor, state auditor and attorney general shall appoint a commission of five persons to revise, codify and amend the liquor laws of the state and report such codification to the governor not later than Jan. 5, 1906, the commissioners to serve without compensation.

Governor Herrick Urges Action on Ohio School Code Bill.

Columbus, O., April 23.—Governor Herrick has addressed a message to both houses advocating immediate action on the school code and warning the assembly that in the absence of such legislation an extraordinary session would be almost imperative.

The emperor has received the following telegram from Viceroy Alexieff:

"I respectfully report to your majesty that today during the placing of mines by steam launches Lieutenant Powell and 9 men were killed through a mine exploding prematurely under the stern of the launch."

"Quite a series of reconnaissances on the Yalu have shown that the Japanese are concentrating in considerable force. It is believed that they have about one division to the north of Wiju. They are also beginning to concentrate troops in Wiju, from which place they have moved the Korean population.

Russian Detachment Repulsed.

Information has reached me that quantities of material, apparently parts of pontoon bridges, are being collected opposite the island of Mabikie.

"Our scouts have killed two Japanese scouts, one of whom appeared to be an officer.

"A Russian detachment of two officers and 32 men in three boats was discovered by the enemy and shots were exchanged, three of our riflemen being killed. Staff Captain Smeizin and 11 riflemen were severely and Lieutenant Pushkin and four men slightly wounded. The detachment returned to our bank of the river under the cover of two of our guns."

Viceroy Alexieff's announcement of the destruction of a launch and the loss of 21 men by the explosion of a Russian torpedo at Port Arthur has added to the gloom which has prevailed since the disaster to the Petrovskov.

The war commission suppressed part of the viceroy's dispatch, which showed where the mines were being laid. It is believed that as launches were employed they were mining the entrance to the harbor in order to prevent the Japanese from forcing an entrance and attempting to destroy the remaining ships.

It is evident from the closing of the entrance that Viceroy Alexieff has no intention of leaving his ships go to sea again, even against an inferior force, though this may not be the policy of Vice Admiral Skrydoff, who will determine on a plan of operations when he assumes command.

A Timely Suggestion.

"We are paying the price of carelessness," said a member of the admiralty, "and previous disasters seem to teach nothing."

This is the season of the year when the student and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children, for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. Representative Hearst Compares Attorney Knox to Setting Hen.

COAL MONOPOLY IS ALLEGED

Candidate for Democratic Presidential Nomination Asks Congress to Call for Evidence in Government's Possession Against Anthracite Roads.

Washington, April 23.—The attorney general has been brooding over that evidence like an old hen on a door-knob for 18 months. He has not acted in any way and won't let anybody take it away from him."

Representative Hearst made this statement before the house committee on the judiciary in arguing for a favorable report on his resolution calling on the attorney general for the evidence against the anthracite coal carrying railroads, which includes the report of the United States district attorney for the southern district of New York.

Mr. Hearst reviewed the proceedings instituted by himself against the railroads and demanded that action should be taken either by the attorney general or that the house should appoint a committee of seven to compile the evidence in the possession of the attorney general with a view to securing action against these roads under the Sherman anti-trust act.

Mr. Hearst said the independent coal operators contemplated building a road of their own to tidewater. To prevent this the trust bought the property of Simpson & Watkins, the largest of the independent operators.

Profits of the Monopoly.

They also bought the Temple Iron company, capitalized at $240,000 and recapitalized at $15,000,000, guaranteeing 6 per cent annual interest on this capitalization. The price of coal in New York was then raised 50 cents a ton, netting an increased annual earning of $20,000,000. This, according to Mr. Hearst, constituted a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and he declared he had placed reliable evidence in the form of affidavits to substantiate the same in the hands of the district attorney for the southern district of New York. This official had investigated the evidence and had recommended 18 months ago that proceedings be instituted.

Representative DeArmond of Missouri maintained that the country ought to know why the attorney general did not proceed in the matter. Representative Palmer asked if the present price of coal was an unreasonable one and if the increase in the price had not resulted shortly after the commission had increased the will break up a cold on the lungs in a night. It should be applied while the first symptoms appear. Rub the chest well with the medicine, upon it a linen cloth wet with Hamlin's Wizard Oil and cover over with flannel bandage. No ordinary cold can withstand this treatment. Apply it at night just before going to bed and in the morning you will be broken up.

Richard W. Thornton, Ouray, Colo., writes April 12, 1902: "My little girl, aged two years, has suffered more or less with Cold since her birth and finally the trouble became serious. Remedies of several kinds have seemed to give no relief. A friend of mine recommended Hamlin's Wizard Oil to me and after the use of one bottle she has become entirely well. I shall never be without Hamlin's Wizard Oil in my medicine cabinet. I recommend it too highly."

wages of the miners 10 per cent.

This Mr. Hearst conceded to be the case. He held that the combination, however, were realizing $20,000,000 a year out of their monopoly and that the 10 per cent increase to the miners did not amount to more than $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 a year.

Wants Evidence Produced.

"What I want," concluded Mr. Hearst, "is to have this evidence come before congress and if the attorney general does not report it, as I am very sure he won't, I then wish or hope that a committee of seven Republicans will be appointed with power to take evidence. I suppose the house and this committee in reporting favorably the resolution really wants to get the evidence; it is not merely going through the form of asking for it, but wants to get it."

"I suppose the purpose is to show whether the attorney general has done his duty," suggested Representative Powers (Rep., Mass.).

"Perhaps the house is capable of judging whether it ought to know the facts itself without leaving it to the attorney general," answered Mr. Hearst.

Mr. Powers wanted to know if Mr. Hearst could not furnish the committee the information inasmuch as he furnished the district attorney the facts in the first instance.

"An individual can do almost all of these things," responded Mr. Hearst, "but the attorney general is there to do something."

DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE.

New York, April 23. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Unsatisfactory weather is still the chief drawback in business, complaints being received from every section of the country and slower collections are attributed to it. Not only is distribution of merchandise affected, but future commitments are undertaken conservatively on account of possible injury to crops.

There has been much talk of damage to cotton, but replanting may prevent any reduction in the total yield and a few weeks of desirable weather would remove anxiety regarding wheat. There is much confidence regarding the future, despite the fact that at many points supplies of merchandise are burdensome. With the exception of wearing apparel, manufacturing plants are increasingly active and structural work is gradually resuming normal proportions. May is usually the date fixed for many labor controversies, but this year there is little prospect of serious disturbance.

While no further improvement can be discerned in the iron and steel industry, there is no distinct evidence of a setback. Nor is it certain that a temporary check to progress is to be deplored. Experience very recently demonstrated that the disposition in the iron and steel trade was to force progress, engendering inflation of prices and other undesirable features of a boom. For about three months the blast furnace output increased steadily and confidence appeared to be returning. Present hesitation is directly due to the failure of the leading interest to take up an option on pig iron at its maturity in conjunction with the apparent cancellation of several smaller orders. Railway equipment is still the most backward feature, while merchant steel for implement makers leads in activity.

Retail distribution of footwear is slow and wholesalers have not disposed of summer styles sufficiently to place supplementary orders, so that factories are overtaking contracts and more machinery is idle. Demands at first hands are few and further curtailment of production by cotton mills has not strengthened the market. On the contrary prices are in favor of buyers. Slightly lower prices prevail for leading agricultural staples. Failures this week numbered 261 in the United States against 166 last year.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and the only remedy is to restore the tube to its normal condition.

HEART DISEASE CURED

Wonderful Results Follow Recently Discovered Remedies.

A $3.75 TREATMENT FREE.

No death comes more suddenly than that from heart disease. Thousands die unnecessarily each year because most physicians do not understand these troubles. Startling improvements have recently been made in the treatment of heart disease.

Formerly digitalis was the only remedy employed, though it injured many cases and cured none. Dr. Miles, the specialist in heart and chronic diseases, finds it necessary to employ 18 heart remedies to cure with certainty the many forms of heart trouble.

To demonstrate the unusual curative powers of his new treatments, Dr. Miles will send a $3.75 course free. Every sufferer from short breath, pain in side, oppression in chest, irregular pulse, palpitation, smothering spells, puffing ankles or dropsy should try it.

Mr. H. A. Ashburn, of Redding, Cal., after he had taken the special treatment, writes: "I feel as well as I ever did. If I ever have another attack of heart trouble I shall write you at once, for no other doctor can treat me."

James E. Adams, 2714 Magnolia avenue, Chicago, says: "Your special treatment cured me of heart disease of 15 years' standing after several reputable physicians of this city failed."

The president of a leading state college who had been treated without benefit, writes: "Your treatment has wonderfully relieved my heart difficulty. My stomach is also in excellent condition, and my general health is greatly improved. I am feeling much better than for years." (Writer's name given on request.)

H. E. Bennett, Monticello, Ind., reports: "I had valvular heart disease, stomach and nervous troubles. Five leading physicians gave me up. Your treatment saved me."

A thousand testimonials will be sent free on request. These include many who have been cured after from five to twenty or more physicians and professors had pronounced them incurable. Send at once for free treatment and for free Heart Books, before it is too late. Address, Franklin H. Miles, M. D., LL. B., Grand Dispensary, 562 to 572 Main street, Elkhart, Ind.

GOOD PROGRAMFOR ARBOR DAY

reports of next Friday will indicate the average will be higher than the previous month. The attendance was especially good yesterday, as all the school children were eager to be on the Arbor day program.

The exercises were not held in the high school since every class is working assiduously under the careful instruction of the teachers to reach the required limits in the various branches of study before the third week of May. Instead of the regular literary exercises for the month of May, the third Friday in the month, May 20, will be observed as Parents' day. This will be the next day of public interest in the schools and will be the most auspicious event of the entire school year.

Great interest has been manifested heretofore in Parents' day and it is desired that the citizens will be equally as enthusiastic in the work this year. This will be the third annual Parents' day. In years previous to 1902, the parents were not given so excellent an opportunity to review the work of the school children, but the idea was conceived by Supt. Rayman and has been much approved by the educators of the community, while those interested in the progress of the city schools are given an opportunity to note the rapidity of their growth.

All the work of the pupils in all grades from the lowest primaries to the advanced classes of the high school in all branches of study will be on exhibit.

The teachers and school children will on that day carry out their regular schedule of work in order that the parents may see what has been the every day work in the schools in the past year.

In the first, second, third and fourth grades will be exhibited the language papers, number work including the fundamental processes and the Speer numbers, drawings and slate work. In the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades will be displayed the grammar work, the physiology drawings, nature charts, the arithmetic and history work.

Some of the physiology drawings are worthy of careful notice, since they are superior in neatness and design to those of last year's work. The nature charts show wonderful originality and taste in arrangement.

In the high school the exhibit of work for the year will show vast improvement.

The composition books in the sciences, chemistry and physics, as well as the drawings and illustrations in physical geography, indicate that the students have done skillful work in the scientific branches.

The Sophomores of the high school had their first field lesson in botany yesterday afternoon. The classes were accompanied by two of the instructors, Prof. Neptune and Miss Hartman.

It has been the custom in connection with the study of botany to take several nature trips, and roam the woods to gather wild flowers.

The classes are large but each student is supposed to gather his own botany specimens and mount them in such a manner as to preserve them for some time. It is required before the course of study in this branch of science is completed that each student must mount at least 50 of the wild flowers and analyze at least five of them, giving them their proper classification as to scientific names, order, habitat, etc.

The teachers' meeting held on Tuesday was largely attended, all the teachers in the first, second, third and fourth grades being present.

Supt. Rayman brought before the meeting a number of topics for interesting thought and discussion. One very impressive theme was, "Know Thy Work." Supt. Rayman stated that with the present progress of education, the phrase, "Know Thy Work" is equally as important to the moderns as the ancient saying from which it originated, "Know Thyself." The correlation of these two topics as regards present work received the careful thought and assimilation of those present.

Announcements have not been made for the teachers' meetings of next week.

Among the visitors in the high school during the past week was Rev. Orcutt, of East Palestine, who addressed the students briefly.

Dr. E. E. Holden, president of Wooster university, was in the city Thursday and Friday. The literature which has been sent out from Wooster in explanation of the summer school shows that there will be an especially fine summer school this year.

Miss Stevenson, teacher of the sixth grade at the Sixth street school, was absent during the week due to illness.

Always in the lead—the News Review.

He Was a Prophet.

In Cheshire, England, there are legends of a prophet, one Robert Nixon, who is supposed to have lived in the days of King James I. His fame spread, and the king sent for him, according to the story. Nixon was greatly distressed. He wept and mourned, saying that if he went to London he should be starved. When he arrived at court the king, having hidden a ring, asked him to find it. Nixon replied, "He who hideth can find." This greatly struck the monarch, who ordered him to be kept in the kitchen so that there might be no fear of his being starved. Nixon had a great appetite—he could manage a leg of mutton at a sitting—and he became such a nuisance that one day the cooks locked him in a closet. Here he was forgotten, and his prophecy came true—he was starved to death. The closet is shown in Hampton Court; but, unfortunately for the veracity of the tale, that portion of the building was not built till the reign of King William III.

To Save One's Bacon.

Some think that the phrase "to save one's bacon" arose at the time of the civil wars in England, when housewives in the country had to take extraordinary precautions to save bacon, their principal provision, from the greedy appetite of soldiers.

In a slang sense bacon stands for the human body, and "to save one's bacon" is just to escape, so that when it is said that a man has saved his bacon it refers to himself, as do the cognate expressions, "Spare my bacon" and "Sell one's bacon." Thus in Carlyle's "Schiller" we read, "To the Kaiser I sold my bacon, and by him good charge of the whole is taken."

Others have less probably connected the phrase with the times when heresy was expiated at the stake, and a man was said to have "saved his bacon" who had narrowly escaped being burned alive.

The French have a very similar phrase, "Sauver son lard."

How Sparks Are Formed.

Sparks are formed by the expansion, under the action of heat, of air contained in the minute cells of wood, coal or other burning substance and also by the evolution of gas in the same cells. When the elastic force of the imprisoned gas or air is greater than the tenacity of the material can hold in check, then the small cells or cavities burst, and the flying splinters rise as sparks. A sharp crack commonly accompanies the explosion and continues as hundreds of these cells burst in rapid succession. The quick flight of these burning particles acts as a fan to increase the flame, and when the substance burns so far that no more flame is formed the remaining carbon ash is kept in a state of incandescence by the draft of air. When all the carbon has been consumed the sparks dies out, as is evident if we watch a falling spark on a dark night.

Raisins and Alcohol.

By the way, speaking of raisins, said a California grower, "did you ever know that they are a great help to sobriety? No; I do not mean that they will cure one of a taste for alcoholic stimulants, but that they will enable one to keep sober even when drinking to a considerable extent. The raisins absorb alcohol, and so, no matter how much one drinks, if he will eat raisins continually, not less than three or four to each glass of beer, for example, they will prevent the alcohol from being taken up in the blood and thus prevent a state of intoxication."

HEART DISEASE CURED

Wonderful Results Follow Recently Discovered Remedies.

A $3.75 TREATMENT FREE.

No death comes more suddenly than that from heart disease. Thousands die unnecessarily each year because most physicians do not understand these troubles. Startling improvements have recently been made in the treatment of heart disease.

Formerly digitalis was the only remedy employed, though it injured many cases and cured none. Dr. Miles, the specialist in heart and chronic diseases, finds it necessary to employ 18 heart remedies to cure with certainty the many forms of heart trouble.

To demonstrate the unusual curative powers of his new treatments, Dr. Miles will send a $3.75 course free. Every sufferer from short breath, pain in side, oppression in chest, irregular pulse, palpitation, smothering spells, puffing ankles or dropsy should try it.

Mr. H. A. Ashburn, of Redding, Cal., after he had taken the special treatment writes: "I feel as well as I ever did. If I ever have another attack of heart trouble I shall write you at once, for no other doctor can treat me."

James E. Adams, 2714 Magnolia avenue, Chicago, says: "Your special treatment cured me of heart disease of 15 years' standing after several reputable physicians of this city failed."

The president of a leading state college who had been treated without benefit, writes: "Your treatment has wonderfully relieved my heart difficulty. My stomach is also in excellent condition, and my general health is greatly improved. I am feeling much better than for years." (Writer's name given on request.)

H. E. Bennett, Monticello, Ind., reports: "I had valvular heart disease, stomach and nervous troubles. Five leading physicians gave me up. Your treatment saved me."

A thousand testimonials will be sent free on request. These include many who have been cured after from five to twenty or more physicians and professors had pronounced them incurable. Send at once for free treatment and for free Heart Book, before it is too late. Address, Franklin H. Miles, M. D., LL. B., Grand Dispensary, 562 to 572 Main street, Elkhart, Ind.

GOOD PROGRAMFOR ARBOR DAY

reports of next Friday will indicate the average will be higher than the previous month. The attendance was especially good yesterday, as all the school children were eager to be on the Arbor day program.

The exercises were not held in the high school since every class is working assiduously under the careful instruction of the teachers to reach the required limits in the various branches of study before the third week of May. Instead of the regular literary exercises for the month of May, the third Friday in the month, May 20, will be observed as Parents' day. This will be the next day of public interest in the schools and will be the most auspicious event of the entire school year.

Great interest has been manifested heretofore in Parents' day and it is desired that the citizens will be equally as enthusiastic in the work this year. This will be the third annual Parents' day. In years previous to 1902, the parents were not given so excellent an opportunity to review the work of the school children, but the idea was conceived by Supt. Rayman and has been much approved by the educators of the community, while those interested in the progress of the city schools are given an opportunity to note the rapidity of their growth.

BIG HOTEL IN THE WOODS

Tavern Inside World's Fair Grounds. Surrounded By a Forest, Offers Luxurious and Restful Retreat.

COMFORT AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The comfort for the visitor to an exposition was never the subject for so much intelligent thought and preparation as it has been at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis.

One of the features that cannot fail to appeal to the visitor is the convenience and comfort afforded by the Inside Inn, a structure of 2,257 rooms, covering an area of 400x100 feet, wholly within the World's Fair grounds.

Probably no hotel ever built commands a view so diversified or grand. From the wide verandas that surround the mammoth structure a wonderful panorama spreads before one. Many of the state buildings, with their giant and magnificent structures, present their most attractive facades. Some of the foreign buildings may be seen, and the forest of towers and turrets, domes and minarets, rising above the great exhibit palaces and seen through the forests of real trees that surround the hotel, give token of the other glories that lie beyond.

A leisurely walk of five minutes will land the visitor on the main terrace in front of Festival Hall, the center of the "main picture" of the Exposition, the grandest spectacle ever produced by man. Another five minutes' walk and the visitor may find himself on The Pike, a street of amusement, a full mile long, with the shows of all nations in gay and enticing array.

In the ten minutes' walk many of the main exhibit palaces have been passed. These comprise the largest and grandest collection of architectural triumphs ever assembled in any one place. Notwithstanding its proximity to these Organ Fund Society.

The Organ Fund Society of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church met last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Laufenburger on Lincoln avenue. There were about 35 members present. The meeting was not for the regular business of the society, but for general sociability of the organization. The evening was devoted to popular amusements, after which a luncheon was served. The young people of the society greatly enjoyed the meeting and it was agreed to hold another entertainment in two weeks. The Misses Garner will then entertain the society at their home on College street.

HOME AFFAIRS

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature and of Matters About Town.

Painfully Hurt—Abe Burlingame, of Wucherer's addition, was painfully injured Friday while engaged in laying a carpet. One of the prongs of the stretcher ran partly through his hand. Moral to men—never lay carpet.

G. A. R. Meeting—There was a large attendance at the meeting of General Lyon post, G. A. R., last evening. The arrangements for the Memorial day observation were talked over at some length.

Taken Ill at Theatre—The ambulance was called to the opera house late last night to remove Mrs. Frank Feistler to her home on Sheridan avenue. She became suddenly sick and was in a swoon when the wagon arrived.

The Street Cleaned Up—The Milligan Hardware company has completed the work of connecting up the sewer for the new Stein building on Washington street. The ditches that have been open for some time were all filled in this morning and the street was cleaned up.

Engineer Headley on Duty—Engineer Harrison Headley, who was seriously injured in a wreck at Hudson almost two years ago, has again resumed his duties on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh run of the C. & P. passenger trains. Mr. Headley has spent the past two years in the Cleveland general hospital and recuperating at the home of his family in this city.

Farewell Sermon Tomorrow—Rev. P. W. Snyder, pastor of the Long's Run Presbyterian church, who has lately accepted a call to the pastorate of a Pittsburg church, will preach his farewell sermon to the Long's Run congregation tomorrow. His congregation receives his departure with considerable regret and it is expected that all who can will be in attendance at the services Sunday.

Memorial Services Arranged—The members of the religious work committee of the Y. M. C. A. met last evening and discussed reviving the interest in the Sunday afternoon meetings at the association rooms. Arrangements will also be made for the holding of a memorial service on the last Sunday in May. A special program will be prepared and the members of the G. A. R. and other patriotic organizations will be invited to attend.

Organ Fund Society—The Organ Fund Society of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church met last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Laufenburger on Lincoln avenue. There were about 35 members present. The meeting was not for the regular business of the society, but for general sociability of the organization.

The parlors were beautifully decorated, the predominating colors being pink and white, the club colors. Another enjoyable feature of the evening was the singing by Messrs. T. P. O'Brien, Charles Caton and Edward Delaney. A choice refection was served, after which the party dispersed with many good wishes for the host and hostess, who are admirable entertainers. Among the guests present were: Misses Margaret and Anna Connally, Trenton, N. J.; Miss Vesta Wanam and Miss Marie Gape, Canton; J. H. Pleasant Event.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson were host and hostess on Thursday evening at their home on Avondale street, when they entertained about 30 of their friends. The event was a very enjoyable one, for most of the time was spent in playing pit and finch. At a proper hour refreshments were served and it was with regret that the happy party disbanded at a late hour.

Coming Concert.

Great interest is being shown in the coming concert of May 3 at the First Presbyterian church, when a chorus of 30 voices under the direction of Prof. H. F. Laughlin, assisted by Mr. Griffith and Mr. Giles, soloists, of Pittsburg, will present an attractive program.

NEEDED TO KEEP CITY STREETS IN ORDER

Council Will Compel Negligent Teamsters to Clean Up Streets or Pay for the Work.

Acting upon a suggestion of the News Review the board of public service last evening decided to request council to pass an ordinance compelling teamsters either to clean up streets that they have made dirty or pay for the cleaning. Council will probably look favorably on such an ordinance and is expected to pass it.

Other cities place a restriction on teamsters and East Liverpool can do the same. It is known by all that the great majority of the local teamsters pay no regard whatever to the cleanliness of the streets. Their wagon beds are loosely constructed and the streets are covered with dirt and rubbish falling through the crevices in the beds. The result of the ordinance will be that the teamsters will have wagon beds that don't leak.

Old Italian in Corsica.

The Italian who travels in Corsica is delighted to hear almost everywhere around him the obsolete expressions and terminations of Dante, while even the Englishman unacquainted with the "Comedy" is surprised at the sound of Latin words which he thought had fallen entirely into oblivion, such as "Nino" for "Nessuno" and "Greve" for "Pesante," or with Latinized forms or personified words, such as "Pluva" for "Pioggia," "Ista" for "Questa" and "Ejo" for "Io."

The Corsican, however, is an older Italian than that even of the medieval poet. It is less specialized on the whole than his, having points of contact with the other dialects, particularly those of Calabria and Sicily, and with the literary languages of Spain and Portugal.—"Studies in Corsica."

Clothing clothes are good. They cost no more than other clothes. Price, $10, $12 and $15. Joseph Bros.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank the many friends who volunteered to assist us in removing our goods from the wrecked building, at our recent location, to a place of safety; and also thank the many merchants who have offered to share their storage room with us. Such expressions at this time are very much appreciated, and we thank all for their kind aid.

Very courteously,
